WASHINGTON, May 18—Ignoring the third-term question, President Roosevelt courted and gained today non-partisan support for his $1,182,000,000 emergency national defense program.

Former Governor Alf Landon of Kansas, who ran against Mr. Roosevelt in 1936, was to be a White House luncheon guest next Wednesday.

Col. Frank Knox, unsuccessful G. O. P. vice presidential candidate on that same ticket, already has taken charge of arranging an intensive training program to turn out 10,000 aviation pilots annually.

As evidence that "politics stops at the water's edge," Knox appointed a New York committee with the President's approval to promote expansion of the air arm. It included some of the New Deal's most strenuous opponents. Particularly notable were F. Trubie Davison, assistant secretary of war in the Coolidge administration, who is now chairman of the United Republican finance committee for metropolitan New York; Winthrop Aldrich, president of the Chase National Bank, and Lewis W. Douglas, original New Deal budget director who split with the President on fiscal policy.

The White House welcomed further the whole-hearted endorsement of the defense program by former President Herbert Hoover.

Unity Indicated
"Mr. Hoover's statement is another indication of national unity and the fact that political differences are being cast aside," said White House Secretary Stephen T. Early.

A further punch to the preparedness program was expected shortly from two other men of national stature.

Schorr Expected to Keep Post As G. O. P. Chieftain

HARLEY M. Kilgore, above, has finally been declared winner over Senator Rush D. Holt of West Virginia in the Democratic primary in that state. Kilgore is a criminal court judge at Beckley.

European Bulletins

LONDON—Swiss railway connections between Basle and St. Louis were blown up by French military engineers last night in order to prevent a surprise German attack on Switzerland, the Exchange Telegraph company reported from Zurich today.

LONDON—Complete rout of eleven German Junkers dive-bombers after nine additional planes of the squadron had been shot down by nine British hurricane fighters was announced officially today by the British air ministry. In this engagement, which occurred over French soil yesterday, not a single British plane was lost, the air ministry said.

BERLIN—The German high command today announced capitulation of islands in the Dutch province of Zeeland, last section of the country to hold out against the Nazi invasion.

PARIS—Premier Paul Reynaud today summoned a meeting of the French war cabinet at the Quai D'Orsay. The premier is scheduled to deliver a broadcast tonight.

LONDON—A German report that the French government was preparing to leave Paris, possibly for Canada, was termed "ridiculous" today by British authorities. The idea that any such move is contemplated by the French is "ridiculous and extremely premature, to say the least," British officials stated. They added there is no reason to believe that the present situation warrants such a move.

BUCHAREST—To purge Rumania of "fifth column" elements, the ministry of the interior today issued a drastic decree ordering all aliens who have not lived in Rumania prior to September, 1939, to leave the country before May 30 or face internment in concentration camps.

CANADIAN CITY TO BAN USE OF GERMAN TONGUE

LEAMINGTON, Ont., May 18—Because Canada is at war with Germany, the Leamington council today approved a resolution forbidding the use of the German language in public places for the duration of the war. A sizeable portion of the population is of German descent.
"There's not going to be any more monkeyshines around here," said Mayor Phil Fader. "We are still enjoying British freedom and we're going to stay as long as I have anything to say about it."

Bricker, Burton Discuss Fall Campaign, Need For Cooperation

COLUMBUS, May 18—The general belief in capital political circles today was that Ed D. Schorr, of Cincinnati, probably will retain his post as chairman of the Republican state central committee, despite his pre-primary opposition to the party's nominee for U. S. senator, Mayor Harold Burton of Cleveland.

Within a few days calls will go out for both newly-elected Republican and Democratic state central committees to meet in Columbus and organize. The committees elect their own chairmen, but often the members are influenced by the heads of the party tickets.

Following a four-hour private conference yesterday with Gov. John Bricker, Mayor Burton admitted that he was "naturally interested" in the Republican state committee's choice for chairman, but he declared:

"That matter definitely is in the hands of the state committee."

Bricker for Cooperation

Governor Bricker, too, disclaimed any intention of trying to influence the committee's action. "I favor a policy of cooperation all along, working with the elected committee," said the governor.

Schorr is known to be in the governor's good graces, for Bricker in a pre-primary speech publicly praised the state chairman, declaring that no governor ever had better cooperation from state headquarters.

Bricker remained neutral in the primary contest between Burton and Congressman Dudley White, choice of Schorr for the senatorial nomination, although many members of the state administration campaigned as individuals for White.

The Cleveland mayor pledged himself to work for the election of the entire Republican ticket in November, but his aides revealed that he will not stake his own chances on a state campaign committee likely to be dominated by his pre-primary opponents.

Burton will continue his own campaign headquarters in Cleveland, directed by supporters including (Continued on Page Eight)

INFANT'S HEART MOVED TO LEFT SIDE; TOT LIVES

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 18—Her heart removed from the right to the left side of her chest during a delicate operation, the 10-week-old daughter of Theodore R. Baumann, of Hope, Mich., was reported recovering today at University hospital. Mrs. Baumann died when the child was born.

Surgeons said the misplaced heart was caused by intestines which became disarranged at birth, causing collapse of the left lung and pushing the heart to the right side.

Blitzkrieg Would Find U.S. Helpless, Generals Charge

WASHINGTON, May 18—President Roosevelt, it was learned today, decided on his emergency rearmament program after the staff command had frankly advised congress a week earlier that the U. S. army would be virtually helpless before modern "blitzkrieg" warfare.

Testifying behind closed doors, the high command unfolded a startling story of—

A protective force so poorly equipped that it is actually short of uniforms and blankets;

An air corps lacking even one completely modern-equipped plane;

An entire fleet of bombers (Douglas B-18's) so outmoded that the chief of air corps asserted

MAY TERM GRAND JURY TO STUDY 16 COMPLAINTS

Eighteen cases are scheduled to be heard before the Pickaway County grand jury when it meets Tuesday and Wednesday.

The cases to be considered Tuesday morning are Jacob Huffins, failure to stop after collision; Lloyd Flowers, forgery (two charges); Lee Adams, burglary and larceny; Edward Harris, assault and battery; Richard Kneec, account check with no account; Carl R. Stewart, operation of motor vehicle with 1939 tags; Edward Platt, reckless operation of motor vehicle.

Cases to be considered Tuesday afternoon are Luther M. Caffey, reckless operation of motor vehicle; Stella Birchwell Smith, forgery (two charges); Donald Hunter, armed robbery; Norman Coleman, auto larceny; Joshua Linton, statutory charges passed from January grand jury.

Cases to be considered Wednesday morning: Oren Dorsey Ditz, statutory charge; Marville Mustard, larceny; Ansel Roof and Ralph Roof, assault and battery; Theodore Riggins, insufficient funds.

Allied, Nazi Soldiers In Belgium Sought

BERLIN, May 18—That Chancellor Hitler may order his advancing legions to make an attempt to drive the Nazi military lance directly into the heart of Paris was considered a likely possibility today by military circles in Berlin.

Competent observers said today that the Fuehrer's decision as to whether to follow the Schlieffen plan of 1914, or to carry out an attack directly on Paris via Rheims, is expected to become evident within a very short time.

Today the German right wing was smashing forward toward the southernmost end of Belgium, but there is ground to assume that Chancellor Hitler considers the Belgian advance second in importance now to a clear-cut showdown between the German and French armies in France.

By forcing the French to withdraw to the southward regions, the German military machine could pin the French army closer against the heavily fortified and manned Italian frontier where all retreat would be cut off except by way of Switzerland.

DR. CHARLES V. HEDGES, ORIENT, IS DEAD AT 70

Dr. Charles V. Hedges, 70, a native and lifelong resident of Pickaway County, died suddenly Friday after a heart attack at his home near Orient, Scioto Township. Dr. Hedges was a veterinarian. He had practiced since 1893 in the Orient community, opening his office immediately after graduation from the University of Toronto, Toronto, Canada.

He was a son of James H. and Miranda Valentine Hedges. His wife, the former Maude Riffle of Circleville, preceded him in death. Surviving are a brother, James H., of Orient, and a sister, Mrs. Nellie Elder of the home.

The funeral will be Monday at 2 p. m. in the chapel of Forest Cemetery, Circleville, the Rev. L. C. Sherburne of St. Philip's Episcopal Church, officiating. Burial will be under the direction of E. T. Snyder, Mt. Sterling.

MYRON JOHNSON TO HEAD SCHOOL AT SPRINGBORO

Myron T. Johnson, 1101 South Court Street, superintendent of schools at Pickaway Township for the last four years, has accepted a similar position in the schools of Springboro, Warren County. Mr. Johnson, who has been considered one of Pickaway County's most capable administrators, said Saturday that the Springboro school is somewhat larger than Pickaway, about 500 pupils being enrolled.

Mr. Johnson will be succeeded at Pickaway Township by Carl Burger, East Main Street, who has been principal and coach for the last five years. Employment of Mr. Burger was announced Saturday by Mrs. Bernard Young, president of the Pickaway board.

Morris W. Taylor, a member of the faculty during the present year, will become principal and coach. Other teachers reemployed include Mildred Wertman, Mary McKee Clements, Eva Worley and E. H. Althaus in the high school and Mildred Shaner, Hazel Chilcote, Faye Karshner and Ruth McKenzie in the grades. One grade vacancy and the music teacher's position remain to be filled.

WAR INDUSTRIES TO BE CENTERED IN OHIO VALLEY?

WASHINGTON, May 18—The Ohio Valley region, with its supplies of Illinois steel and West Virginia coal, would be a fairly safe location for strategic war industries, defense experts reported today.

Discussing President Roosevelt's suggestion that future American airplane and munitions plants should be placed in the interior, these experts noted that the Ohio Valley region is approximately 1,000 miles from potentially vulnerable Atlantic coast and nearly double that distance from the Pacific.

Farther West, the Colorado-Wyoming area offers both coal and iron, the essential sinews of guns, munitions and other war materials. This section would be safe from attack from any direction, in the opinion of the experts.

Mr. Roosevelt's proposal to place the aircraft plants between the Alleghenies and the Rockies recalled Soviet Russia's experiment in building a vast military structure in the heart of the country, far removed from the danger of enemy attack.

Soviet Russia, under the first "five year plan" begun in 1928, strategically placed its industries of military importance far inland from what had once been a desolate region of forest and tundra.

BULLETIN

BERLIN, May 18—Victorious German forces today surged into the Belgian city of Antwerp and hoisted the Nazi war flag from the city hall, it was officially announced by the high command this afternoon.

Occupation of Antwerp was announced after Germany claimed the Allied defense lines were hopelessly smashed.

At the same time, the high command announced surrender of islands in Zeeland province of the Netherlands. "The northern cornerstone of Belgian defenses has been removed by another glorious German victory with the capture of Antwerp," the announcement said.

PARIS, May 18—Three thousand German tanks today were battering head-on against a vast fleet of French tanks near Maubeuge in the greatest battle of mechanized monsters ever known.

LONDON, May 18—The combined Allied forces today prepared to launch a tremendous counter-offensive to smash the German advance which has driven a bulge into French territory to within less than 100 miles of Paris.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
The Allies and Germans were locked in a violent death-grip in France and Belgium today as it appeared that the most critical phase of the bloody European war had begun.

Nazi Germany claimed to have driven a spear-head attack deep into the vitals of France near the tiny town of Rethel, about 100 miles northeast of Paris.

It was indicated that other Nazi advance troops might have pushed even closer to Paris—possibly to within 75 miles of the French capital—and if such were true, and if German boasts of long-range cannon can be believed, Paris today lies within range of Nazi guns.

Likewise, the Germans crumpled the Dyle River line of defenses in Belgium by capture of Namur fortress, and swept into Brussels on the heels of withdrawing Belgobritish troops. The Germans described the Allied retreat in Belgium as a "rout." The Allies termed it a strategic withdrawal to stronger positions.

More Dutch soil also fell today under the merciless pounding of the Nazi air bombs, big guns and marching legions. The Germans captured two strategic Netherlands islands—Beveland and Walcheren (Flushing)—and if German air bases are established at these points Nazi airmen will have to fly 100 miles to rain death and destruction on the Dover coast of England.

France and Britain made no effort to minimize the gravity of the situation. On the contrary, Allied leaders were unusually frank in revealing the worst to their people at home, as witness Generalissimo Gustave Gamelin's "conquer or die" statement of yesterday.

In London this morning so tense was the interest in the crisis on the battle front that it was estimated the British Broadcasting Corporation's newscast had the largest morning audience in British radio history.

Britons were heartened by official reports of air attacks on military objectives in Germany, and by the lack of any announcement in either London or Paris of any further German advances.

Neutrals Fear Trouble
The severity of the situation was reflected in neutral capitals as well.

In Ankara the American embassy today advised all Americans to leave Turkey "while there still is the opportunity." It was reported that Turkey, joined to the Allies by pacts and treaties although still neutral, is considering (Continued on Page Eight)

MARKET SHOWS ANOTHER SLIDE IN ALL SHARES

NEW YORK, May 18—The stock market continued its headlong plunge at the opening today, with losses running to two points. Losses were chiefly in steels, aviation and some blue-chips, the general market showing fractional declines for the most part. Trading was maintained at a furious pace, the tape running late immediately as blocks of 1,000 to 6,000 shares changed hands. American Smelting, Du Pont and American Telephone each tumbled two points. Douglas lost 1 1/2 in the aviation section, while Consolidated Aircraft and Glenn I. Martin each gave up a point. U. S. Steel lost 1/2 on an opening block of 4,000 shares at 49 1/2, while Bethlehem slipped 1/2 on a sale of 3,000 shares at 76 1/2. Republic's initial sale was 6,000 at 15 1/2, off 1 1/2.

Nazi Germany claimed to have driven a spear-head attack deep into the vitals of France near the tiny town of Rethel, about 100 miles northeast of Paris.

It was indicated that other Nazi advance troops might have pushed even closer to Paris—possibly to within 75 miles of the French capital—and if such were true, and if German boasts of long-range cannon can be believed, Paris today lies within range of Nazi guns.

Likewise, the Germans crumpled the Dyle River line of defenses in Belgium by capture of Namur fortress, and swept into Brussels on the heels of withdrawing Belgobritish troops. The Germans described the Allied retreat in Belgium as a "rout." The Allies termed it a strategic withdrawal to stronger positions.

More Dutch soil also fell today under the merciless pounding of the Nazi air bombs, big guns and marching legions. The Germans captured two strategic Netherlands islands—Beveland and Walcheren (Flushing)—and if German air bases are established at these points Nazi airmen will have to fly 100 miles to rain death and destruction on the Dover coast of England.

France and Britain made no effort to minimize the gravity of the situation. On the contrary, Allied leaders were unusually frank in revealing the worst to their people at home, as witness Generalissimo Gustave Gamelin's "conquer or die" statement of yesterday.

In London this morning so tense was the interest in the crisis on the battle front that it was estimated the British Broadcasting Corporation's newscast had the largest morning audience in British radio history.

Britons were heartened by official reports of air attacks on military objectives in Germany, and by the lack of any announcement in either London or Paris of any further German advances.

Neutrals Fear Trouble The severity of the situation was reflected in neutral capitals as well.

In Ankara the American embassy today advised all Americans to leave Turkey "while there still is the opportunity." It was reported that Turkey, joined to the Allies by pacts and treaties although still neutral, is considering (Continued on Page Eight)

MARKET SHOWS ANOTHER SLIDE IN ALL SHARES

NEW YORK, May 18 — The stock market continued its headlong plunge at the opening today, with losses running to two points. Losses were chiefly in steels, aviation and some blue-chips, the general market showing fractional declines for the most part.

Trading was maintained at a furious pace, the tape running late immediately as blocks of 1,000 to 6,000 shares changed hands. American Smelting, Du Pont and American Telephone each tumbled two points. Douglas lost 1 1/2 in the aviation section, while Consolidated Aircraft and Glenn L. Martin each gave up a point.

U. S. Steel lost 1/2 on an opening block of 4,000 shares at 49 1/2, while Bethlehem slipped 1/2 on a sale of 3,000 shares at 76 1/2. Republic's initial sale was 6,000 at 15 1/2, off 1 1/2.

Milnar's Mound Work Big Help To Indian Team

Home Town Boy Makes Good With Four Victories In Row; Yankees Look Like Champs In Chicago Game

By Ed Kiley

NEW YORK, May 18—The ambition of most youngsters in Major League cities is to someday play for the home town team, but only in rare cases is such an ambition realized.

Al Milnar, a strapping, big southpaw for the Cleveland Indians, is one of those rare cases. In 1935, "Happy," as Milnar is called by his teammates because of his fine temperament, was found by the Indians' scouts playing on Cleveland sandlots. He immediately was signed to a contract and shipped to the minors for seasoning.

TIGER GOLFERS LOSE 11 TO 1 TO LONDON YOUTHS

Circleville High School golfers were able to score only one point Friday when they engaged the London team on the London Country Club course. Johnny Woods, begging a 41 on his last nine, kept the Tigers from being white-washed.

A poor first round in which the scores of all the boys showed the course's strangeness to them resulted in the defeat.

London will invade the Pick-away Country Club during the next week or 10 days for a return match. The Tiger team has matches scheduled with Upper Arlington and Wilmington and if the boys defeat Wilmington they will play Washington C. H. again for the South Central Ohio league title.

Scores Friday were:

RED BIRDS STAY IN LOWER BERTH AS INDIANS WIN

COLUMBUS, May 18—The Columbus Red Birds remained in the American Association cellar today due to a 3 to 2 loss to the Indianapolis Indians.

Bob Logan hurled for the Indians and recorded his sixth victory of the season against one defeat. Frank Melton and Brecheen pitched for the Birds and, although they allowed the Indians only four hits, eight walks issued by Melton spelled disaster.

In other games, Louisville, with Big Jim Weaver on the mound, won a 6 to 2 victory from Toledo. Milwaukee scored four runs in the eighth frame to win a 6 to 5 decision from the Minneapolis Millers.

MEL HARDER, CLEVELAND QUESTION MARK AT THE START OF THE SEASON, GETTING READY TO JOIN FELLER, ALLEN AND MILNAR AS THE TRIBES STARTING PITCHERS

Title Fight Interest Low; Mungo's Comeback Vital

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, May 18—Along the sports front today we find: Interest in title fights has slumped to a new low for Cefierino Garcia's middleweight championship defense against Ken Overlin next Thursday night. . . . A good part of Garcia's current activity is devoted to allying his failure to do better than draw Henry Armstrong in their California bout a few months ago. . . . Armstrong was and is actually a lightweight. . . . Among other things, Garcia, a hard-hitting 157-pounder, accuses Armstrong (139) of being too rough. . . . Overlin sounded the keynote for the forthcoming match when he surmised that Harry Greb could have taken both himself and Garcia at the same time. . . . that probably will get Overlin officially censured by Promoter Mike Jacobs, but wisdom and honesty of the observation must be apparent.

Every now and then somebody breaks into print with the suggestion that Jockey Freddie Smith is just an ordinary rider. . . . all we know is that he can't be much of a hindrance to Bimelech, who has been ridden by Smith to nine victories and a second in 10 starts going back through last year and including this year's Kentucky Derby and Pimlico Preakness.

Smith and Bimby will be about 2 to 5 in the Withers at Belmont today.

The one thing needed to make the Brooklyn Dodgers' rooters' joy complete for this season, besides a pennant win, is for Van Lingle Mungo to make a complete comeback on the mound. . . . he showed signs of it in that game with the Reds Wednesday.

And, incidentally, if the big South Carolinian could pitch some winning ball this season it would put the Dodgers just that much nearer the pennant. . . . they hadn't counted on him at all.

And whatever became of Jesse Owens, the one man show in the 1936 Olympic games at Berlin? . . . at last reports, a few days ago, he was in the South sprinting and jumping as an added attraction at professional sports events. . . . he is bitter and disillusioned and broke. . . . and not much of a drawing card any more either, even for races against horses such as marked his professional debut four years ago. . . . he could have done much better remaining an amateur. . . . but how many can see a mistake in advance?

TAISTO MAKI POOR THIRD IN WEST COAST CONTEST

LOS ANGELES, May 18—Taisto Maki, the Finnish running ace, finished a poor third in a special two-mile race at the Los Angeles coliseum last night, defeated by Walter Mehl of Wisconsin who romped in four yards ahead of Greg Rice of Notre Dame. Mehl was clocked at 9:1.8.

The race, put on for the Finnish Relief Fund, was witnessed by more than 15,000 track fans.

A new American record for the two-mile relay was set by Stanford University, when the quartet finished in 1:53.

GOODY'S BLOW WINS FOR REDS

Outfielder Comes Through In Eleventh Frame With Bases Crowded

PHILADELPHIA, May 18—The Cincinnati Reds must have pent-up pent-up again, the Philadelphia Phils agreed today.

The Phils and Reds were tied up at two-all in the eleventh frame yesterday and Cincinnati's first-place position in the National League was in danger. The second-place Brooklyn Dodgers had defeated St. Louis, 4 to 3.

Two men were out and the bases loaded when Ival Goodman came to bat in that 11th frame. Goodman swung and the ball rose gracefully over the right field wall to score four runs. Not satisfied, the Redlegs scored another counter on Frank McCormick's walk and Johnny Rizzo's double.

Paul Derringer was to take the mound today against Mulcahy of the Phils.

Jenkins Comes Along At Just Right Time

HITTING LEADER

EX-NEW YORK GIANT
OUTFIELDER, PACING
THE CHICAGO CUBS
AT BAT

COLUMBUS, May 18—Ohio State University and Notre Dame were to renew their baseball rivalry today with the Buckeyes hoping to gain revenge for the 4 to 0, 10-inning defeat administered by the Irish yesterday.

For the first nine innings, neither team scored as Mark Kilmer, of the Buckeyes, and Rex Ellis, Irish moundsman, sent batters back to the dugouts. Then Kilmer blew up as the Irish launched a "blitzkrieg." Before the inning was over four Irish had crossed the plate.

ARMSTRONG IS WELL FIXED, JUST AS AMBERS IS, AND ONCE YOU'VE GOT EVERYTHING YOU'VE WANTED, AND MORE BESIDES, YOU MUST LOSE SOME OF THAT OLD ZING. IT'S HUMAN NATURE, OR SOMETHING. NO FIGHTER CAN ESCAPE IT.

Here is a good example of the change that can come over a fighter in a comparatively short time. When Jimmy McLarin beat Ambers—only outpointing him with nothing at stage—Ambers was inconsolable after the fight. He wept and raved and carried on for hours. After Jenkins knocked him out and took his lightweight championship, Ambers sat on his dressing room table singing and laughing and apparently not in the least put out what would have been tragedy to him a couple of years ago. He will pack up some good purses fighting as a welterweight and finally retire to happy contentment.

ARMSTRONG HAS BEEN TOYING FOR A LONG TIME WITH THE NOTION THAT he has just about everything he needs, and the only thing that keeps him going is the fact that he holds the welterweight championship and it represents too much money for him to chuck it away and walk off. He will stick around as long as he is champion anyway, but with his interest in fighting more and more on the wane.

So we find Jenkins with his whistling right hand punch in our midst at a time like this when some of our better fighters are a little weary of it all, with the result that Jenkins could and conceivably may make it knockouts over two champions in a row.

It can be mentioned again, Armstrong quite possibly will be unable to leave that ring under his own power. And his ears may be out of place and his intellect out of order.

And Armstrong, like Ambers, is catching Jenkins when the latter still in hungry and apparently on the way up. He seems to have found himself only in the last year. Also like Ambers, Armstrong catches Jenkins at a time when Armstrong is on his way back, undoubtedly burned out to some extent by the sustained fury of his INDIANAPOLIS, May 18—Forty-seven racing cars lined up here today for the toughest land speed qualifying tests in the country, including the race for best positions in the 500-mile Memorial Day Indianapolis race.

The tests today will determine the qualifiers, who must average at least 115 miles an hour for 10 miles, and the driver who will get the inside front or "pole" position in the big race. Sixteen drivers were expected to try for the pole position.

Favorites for the latter were Rex Mays of Glendale, Calif., driving an 8-cylinder racer entered by Robert Bowes of Indianapolis, and Bob Swanson of Los Angeles, driving a 16-cylinder "Big Bertha" entered by Alden Sampson of Los Angeles.

Either Mays or Swanson is capable of breaking the existing speed record of 130.138 miles per hour. Others expected to try for the pole position included George Connor of San Bernardino, Calif., Tommy Henderschitz of Reading, Pa., Shorty Cantlon and Russell Snowberger of Detroit.

Title Fight Interest Low; Mungo's Comeback Vital

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, May 18—Along the sports front today we find: Interest in title fights has slumped to a new low for Ceferrino Garcia's middleweight championship defense against Ken Overlin next Thursday night. . . . A good part of Garcia's current activity is devoted to allying his failure to do better than draw Henry Armstrong in their California bout a few months ago. . . . Armstrong was and is actually a lightweight. . . . Among other things, Garcia, a hard-hitting 157-pounder, accuses Armstrong (139) of being too rough. . . . Overlin sounded the keynote for the forthcoming match when he surmised that Harry Greb could have taken both himself and Garcia at the same time. . . . that probably will get Overlin officially censured by Promoter Mike Jacobs, but wisdom and honesty of the observation must be apparent.

GOODY'S BLOW WINS FOR REDS

Outfielder Comes Through In Eleventh Frame With Bases Crowded

PHILADELPHIA, May 18—The Cincinnati Reds must have pent-up fever again, the Philadelphia Phils agreed today.

The Phils and Reds were tied up at two-all in the eleventh frame yesterday and Cincinnati's first-place position in the National League was in danger. The second-place Brooklyn Dodgers had defeated St. Louis, 4 to 3.

Two men were out and the bases loaded when Ival Goodman came to bat in that 11th frame. Goodman swung and the ball rose gracefully over the right field wall to score four runs. Not satisfied, the Redlegs scored another counter on Frank McCormick's walk and Johnny Rizzo's double.

Paul Derringer was to take the mound today against Mulcahy of the Phils.

47 CARS SPEED FOR POLE POST IN MAY 30 RACE

INDIANAPOLIS, May 18—Forty-seven racing cars lined up here today for the toughest and speed qualifying tests in the country, including the race for best positions in the 500-mile Memorial Day Indianapolis race.

The tests today will determine the qualifiers, who must average at least 115 miles an hour for 10 miles, and the driver who will get the inside front or "pole" position in the big race. Sixteen drivers were expected to try for the pole position.

Favorites for the latter were Rex Mays of Glendale, Calif., driving an 8-cylinder racer entered by Robert Bowes of Indianapolis, and Bob Swanson of Los Angeles, driving a 16-cylinder "Big Bertha" entered by Aiden Sampson of Los Angeles.

Either Mays or Swanson is capable of breaking the existing speed record of 130.138 miles per hour. Others expected to try for the pole position included George Connor of San Bernardino, Calif., Tommy Henneschitz of Reading, Pa., Shorty Canton and Russell Snowberger of Detroit.

romped in four yards ahead of Greg Rice of Notre Dame. Mehl was clocked at 91.8.

The race, put on for the Finnish Relief Fund, was witnessed by more than 15,000 track fans.

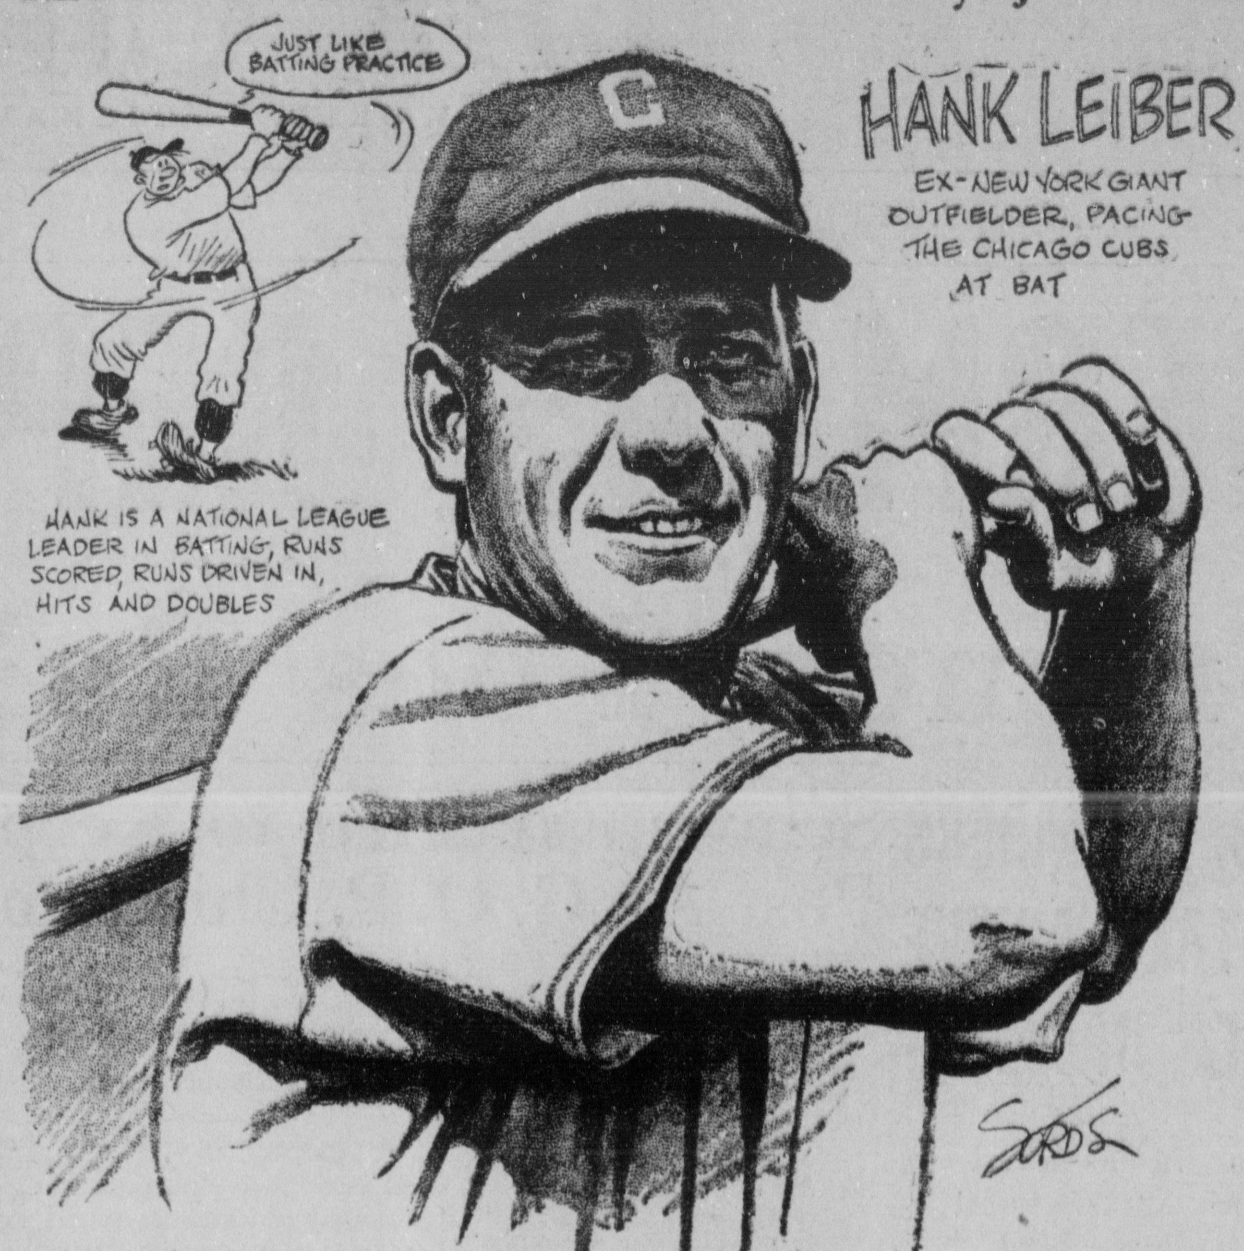

A new American record for the two-mile relay was set by Stanford University, when the quartet finished in 1:53.

Jenkins Comes Along At Just Right Time

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, May 18—It may be that Lew Jenkins, the so-called Sweetwater swatter, has come along at exactly the right time to capitalize to the fullest on his punching ability. Having almost literally beaten the ears off Lou Ambers for the lightweight championship (New York commission version) he may startle the pugilistic populace even more by visiting similar chastisement upon the person of Henry Armstrong. The latter has been knocked out only once in his career and that was back in the 40s when he was an unfed preliminary boy. But Ambers never had been knocked out, hungry or otherwise, until Jenkins gave it to him in three rounds.

It so happens that Ambers and Armstrong both have been softened up a little by years of campaigning, financial independence and happy marriages. Once a fighter wins a title and becomes well-dressed, well-fed and self-satisfied every fight thereafter brings him closer and closer to that inevitable moment when, at the height of his career, he is liable to be beaten. Ambers knows what we mean. Armstrong may find out in July if he tackles Jenkins as scheduled.

Armstrong had to be good to become the first fighter ever to hold three titles at the same time and he had to whip a lot of good men on his way up and after he got there. He probably won from better all-around fighters than Jenkins, too, in his barn-storming about the country taking on all comers in three divisions. But he never met an opponent who combined punch, savagery and fighting heart to such extent as he will find in Jenkins.

And Armstrong, like Ambers, is catching Jenkins when the latter still is hungry and apparently on the way up. He seems to have found himself only in the last year. Also like Ambers, Armstrong catches Jenkins at a time when Armstrong is on his way back, undoubtedly burned out to some extent by the sustained fury of his crowding, mauling relentless attack, by fighting as often as four and five times a month in some stretches and by soft living during the last year or so.

Armstrong is well fixed, just as Ambers is, and once you've got everything you've wanted, and more besides, you must lose some of that old zing. It's human nature, or something. No fighter can escape it.

Here is a good example of the change that can come over a fighter in a comparatively short time. When Jimmy McLarin beat Ambers—only outpointing him with nothing at stake—Ambers was inconsolable after the fight. He wept and raved and carried on for hours. After Jenkins knocked him out and took his lightweight championship, Ambers sat on his dressing room table singing and laughing and apparently not in the least put out what would have been tragedy to him a couple of years ago. He will pack up some good purses fighting as a welterweight and finally retire to happy contentment.

Armstrong has been toying for a long time with the notion that he has just about everything he needs, and the only thing that keeps him going is the fact that he holds the welterweight championship and it represents too much money for him to chuck it away and walk off. He will stick around as long as he is champion anyway, but with his interest in fighting more and more on the wane.

So we find Jenkins with his whistling right hand punch in our midst at a time like this when some of our better fighters are a little weary of it all, with the result that Jenkins could and conceivably may make it knockouts over two champions in a row.

It can be mentioned again, Armstrong quite possibly will be unable to leave that ring under his own power. And his ears may be out of place and his intellect out of order.

IRISH DEFEAT BUCKEYES IN 4 TO 0 BALL GAME

COLUMBUS, May 18—Ohio State University and Notre Dame were to renew their baseball rivalry today with the Buckeyes hoping to gain revenge for the 4 to 0, 10-inning defeat administered by the Irish yesterday.

For the first nine innings, neither team scored as Mark Kilmer, of the Buckeyes, and Rex Ellis, Irish moundsman, sent batters back to the dugouts. Then Kilmer blew up as the Irish laughed a "blitzkrieg." Before the inning was over four Irish had crossed the plate.

HEROES AND GOATS

HEROES—Clade Passau, Chicago Cub pitcher, who allowed the Giants two hits as the Cubs beat New York; Ival Goodman, Cincinnati outfielder, whose eleventh inning homer with the bases loaded, beat the Philadelphia Philles.

GOATS—Sid Hudson, Washington pitcher, who issued five walks and a hit before retiring in the first inning when the Cleveland Indians scored 10 runs; Lloyd Brown, Philadelphia pitcher, who threw Goodman a home run ball in the eleventh after two men were out.

Young People of Evangelical Church Gather for Afternoon, Evening Rites

More Than 100 Expected To Be Present For Services

The young people's organizations of the Southern District of the Evangelical Church in Ohio will hold their annual spring rally at Calvary Church on Saturday afternoon and evening. Services will be held at 2 p. m. and 7 p. m. Wayne Baxter will preside at both sessions. Miss Ruth Carothers of Circleville will lead the devotional service in the afternoon and Earl Leist will have charge of the evening service.

Dr. J. R. Howe, president of Otterbein College at Westerville, Ohio, the Rev. Leroy Deininger of Cleveland, and the Rev. H. V. Falor, of Baltimore, Ohio will speak at the rally.

A young people's banquet will be held at 5:30 p. m. in the Parish House of the United Brethren Church. The young people of the Miller Avenue Evangelical Church, Columbus, will be in charge of the program which follows.

More than 100 persons, representatives of Lancaster, Columbus, Westerville, Baltimore, New Zion, Stoutsville, Cedar Hill and Circleville, are expected to be present.

REV. KELSEY PICKS 'OUR CHRISTIAN WORK' TOPIC

"Our Christian Work" will be the sermon theme of the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, pastor at the worship service Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Clark Will will sing a soprano solo during this service entitled "In My Father's House Are Many Mansions" by Ward-Stephens.

Organ numbers to be played by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke, organist, include "The Little Bells of Our Lady of Lourdes" by Gaul, "Offertory" by Debussy, and "Epilogue" by Gillette.

WEATHER CONTROLLER

At City Meeting

Dr. Ruskin Howe

Dr. Howe, completing his first year as president of Otterbein college, Westerville, will speak Saturday at the youth rally of the Evangelical church at Circleville. This is the second in a series of meetings in the southern district.

President Howe has led Otterbein through the first "black" year financially in the last four, according to a report of the treasurer to a recent meeting of the executive committee. This is especially outstanding because of numerous expansion programs. For the first time in the history of the college, founded in 1847, a health center, cooperative house and professional tennis coach have been provided.

The recent vote on chapel, whether the present system of five days or a "modernized" two-day program would be adopted, showed President Howe the confidence of the students. They voted three to one to retain the present system, which he defended in a debate with a senior.

Church Briefs

Professor J. Wray Henry will address the Epworth League of the First Methodist Church at its meeting at 6:30 Sunday evening.

The session of the First Presbyterian Church will meet Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the session room of the church for a special meeting.

The women of the First Methodist Church are invited to attend the Chillicothe District Women's Home Missionary Society meeting at the Trinity Methodist Church in Chillicothe Tuesday.

The Mother's Jewels will meet in the parlor of the Methodist Church on Tuesday, May 21, from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m. Mrs. Dan McClain, assisted by Mrs. David Goldschmidt, will have charge of the meeting.

"The Way to Life Eternal" will be the subject of Dr. G. J. Troutman's sermon at Trinity Lutheran Church Sunday morning. During the evening worship period he will talk on "The Do and Don't of Religion."

The executive committee and teachers of the daily vacation Bible school of the First Methodist Church will meet at the church Tuesday evening at 7:30.

Rev. J. W. Heininger, president of the historical society of the Ohio Conference, will speak at a special commemorative service for the Conference held Sunday morning at the Evangelical Church.

PAUL'S PHILOSOPHY TO BE METHODIST CHURCH TOPIC

The Rev. C. F. Bowman will preach on "Paul's Philosophy of Life" at the morning worship service of the First Methodist Church. The vested choir under the direction of Mrs. James P. Moffitt, will sing "Nearer To Thee" by Tschalkowsky. Mrs. Ervin Leist at the organ will play a voluntary "Prelude" by L. L. Bettman, an offertory "In The Cloister" by Clarence Kohlmann and a postlude "False Propaganda" by Norwood Dale. "Hose Beyond" will be the subject of the Sunday school lesson.

State Legislatures Now Help Engineers In Drive Against "Sudden Death" On Highways

Saving pedestrian lives. Steel arch footbridge over Chicago's Outer Drive at 47th street.

No intersectional accidents here. Modern engineering calls for this type of "cloverleaf" intersection wherever two busy highways cross.

"Stated speed" signs now tell the motorist exactly how fast he can approach a curve or intersection with safety.

CHICAGO, April 18—The most effective measures to combat the wraith of "sudden death" over the nation's highways are being forged in state legislatures and over engineers' drafting tables, according to a survey made by the Chicago Motor Club.

Automobiles remain as the deadliest enemy of the American people, having exacted a toll of 32,100 deaths last year. The number of injuries in which automobiles were involved reached the staggering total of 1,210,200 in 1938.

This appalling situation has stirred the legislatures of virtually every state in the union into taking action along varying avenues. Only six states are without legislation which attempts to establish the fitness of drivers before permitting them to operate vehicles. Companion legislation on financial responsibility of drivers is making it possible for states to keep unknown and unsafe drivers off the highways.

What States Can Do
Safety legislation enacted by the various states, President Charles M. Hayes of the motor club points out, can be summarized under these headings:

Extension of discretionary powers in regulations.
Regulations of pedestrians and bicyclists.
Increases in statutory blanket speed limits.
Greater number of highway policemen.

Michigan has shown how valuable discretionary powers can be to the state highway department. The latter has set off zones on sections of the highways where Speed limits are being increased or decreased or abolished altogether in conformity to the driving conditions in various localities.

In large cities pedestrian control devices are being experiments with. Where motor traffic is too heavy to be interrupted by lights, pedestrian over-passes or tunnels are being built.

Street and highway lighting is another development by which engineers are seeking to protect pedestrians. Sodium vapor lights, which give illumination without glare and new types of street lights, are being installed in many cities and along country roads.

A Model Highway

Engineers continue to plan toward the ideal high speed superhighway, exemplified in New York City by the Pulaski skyway. This highway has no intersections, no pedestrians, no parking, and its opposing traffic streams are separated by a center curb or parkway. Traffic can enter or leave it only at widely separated intervals and then only on parallel ramps with lanes for accelerating or decelerating traffic.

On such highways, President Hayes believes, fully 98 percent of all accidents would be impossible.

Another important trend in engineering, President Hayes observes, is the number of cities, small as well as large, which are hiring trained traffic engineers for positions on their staffs of officials.

Young People of Evangelical Church Gather for Afternoon, Evening Rites

More Than 100 Expected To Be Present For Services

The young people's organizations of the Southern District of the Evangelical Church in Ohio will hold their annual spring rally at Calvary Church on Saturday afternoon and evening. Services will be held at 2 p. m. and 7 p. m. Wayne Baxter will preside at both sessions. Miss Ruth Carothers of Circleville will lead the devotional service in the afternoon and Earl Leist will have charge of the evening service.

Dr. J. R. Howe, president of Otterbein College at Westerville, Ohio, the Rev. Leroy Deininger of Cleveland, and the Rev. H. V. Falor, of Baltimore, Ohio will speak at the rally.

A young people's banquet will be held at 5:30 p. m. in the Parish House of the United Brethren Church. The young people of the Miller Avenue Evangelical Church, Columbus, will be in charge of the program which follows.

More than 100 persons, representatives of Lancaster, Columbus, Westerville, Baltimore, New Zion, Stoutsville, Cedar Hill and Circleville, are expected to be present.

REV. KELSEY PICKS 'OUR CHRISTIAN WORK' TOPIC

"Our Christian Work" will be the sermon theme of the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, pastor at the worship service Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Clark Will sing a soprano solo during this service entitled "In My Father's House Are Many Mansions" by Ward-Stephens.

Organ numbers to be played by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke, organist, include "The Little Bells of Our Lady of Lourdes" by Gaul, "Offertory" by Debussy, and "Epilogue" by Gillette.

WEATHER CONTROLLER

At City Meeting

Dr. Howe, completing his first year as president of Otterbein college, Westerville, will speak Saturday at the youth rally of the Evangelical church at Circleville. This is the second in a series of meetings in the southern district. President Howe has led Otterbein through the first "black" year financially in the last four, according to a report of the treasurer to a recent meeting of the executive committee. This is especially outstanding because of numerous expansion programs. For the first time in the history of the college, founded in 1847, a health center, cooperative house and professional tennis coach have been provided.

The recent vote on chapel, whether the present system of five days or a "modernized" two-day program would be adopted, showed President Howe the confidence of the students. They voted three to one to retain the present system, which he defended in a debate with a senior.

Church Briefs

Professor J. Wray Henry will address the Epworth League of the First Methodist Church at its meeting at 6:30 Sunday evening.

The session of the First Presbyterian Church will meet Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the session room of the church for a special meeting.

The women of the First Methodist Church are invited to attend the Chillicothe District Women's Home Missionary Society meeting at the Trinity Methodist Church in Chillicothe Tuesday.

The Mother's Jewels will meet in the parlor of the Methodist Church on Tuesday, May 21, from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m. Mrs. Dan McClain, assisted by Mrs. David Goldschmidt, will have charge of the meeting.

"The Way to Life Eternal" will be the subject of Dr. G. J. Troutman's sermon at Trinity Lutheran Church Sunday morning. During the evening worship period he will talk on "The Do and Don't of Religion."

The executive committee and teachers of the daily vacation Bible school of the First Methodist Church will meet at the church Tuesday evening at 7:30.

Rev. J. W. Heininger, president of the historical society of the Ohio Conference, will speak at a special commemorative service for the Conference held Sunday morning at the Evangelical Church.

PAUL'S PHILOSOPHY TO BE METHODIST CHURCH TOPIC

The Rev. C. F. Bowman will preach on "Paul's Philosophy of Life" at the morning worship service of the First Methodist Church. The vested choir under the direction of Mrs. James P. Moffitt, will sing "Nearer To Thee" by Tschalkowsky. Mrs. Ervin Leist at the organ will play a voluntary "Prelude" by L. L. Bettman, an offertory "In The Cloister" by Clarence Kohlmann and a postlude "Hope Beyond" by Norwood Dale. "False Propaganda" will be the subject of the Sunday school lesson.

ARMING FOR PEACE

UNCLE SAM at last stops fooling around and starts putting his house in order. And not merely his living room (which doesn't mean in America what it does in Germany) but also his dining room, kitchen, basement and attic, and also his front and back yards. There will be guns mounted now, and ammunition stored, and other necessities of life accumulated against a time of positive siege. There will be better policing and better equipment for Uncle to get around upon his lawful occasions.

It will cost money. Everybody knows that. But it will cost far less than failure to take such precautions. The last war has been estimated as costing us somewhere between 100 billions and the financial stratosphere. Another war, if we got into it on the scale now becoming standard, might cost us about everything we've got.

It will be said by some critical or timid citizens that we're arming "to fight Germany again." More likely we're arming to avoid that. The surest way to get into a war with Nazified Germany is, not to be ready for it.

Hitler, with all his craziness, has a little wheel of expediency. He doesn't attack anybody that he isn't sure to lick. Neither do the other modern Attilas and Genghis Khans.

BIGOTRY VS. LIBERTY

THE Council Against Intolerance, at its conference in New York City, discussed particularly "tolerance through education." The council believes that "the American people are menaced today by forces which seek to destroy liberty through bigotry," and that "those forces are attempting to foment racial and religious intolerance through the school, the home and among teachers." It will therefore conduct its counter-movement through those same channels.

Confidence in the judgment and honesty of this organization is inspired by such names in its membership as William Allen White, Carrie Chapman Catt, Governor Lehman of New York, Alfred E. Smith, Hugh Johnson and Senator Wagner.

Young children know no racial or national intolerance, but they have a fierce loyalty to parents, early teachers and friends. They learn intolerance from these idols, if intolerance is there to be learned. The practical problem, then, lies in educating adults in tolerance while teaching the youngsters to retain their natural gift for equality and fair play. If democracy really means as much to us as we say, there should be widespread cooperation with the Council in this important work.

A time may come when people boycott every radio program whose announcer yells at them.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

NAZI VICTORY OVER DUTCH AHEAD

WASHINGTON—U. S. intelligence reports have worked out what they call the "Hitler Time-Table", giving the approximate time at which he will attack each country. The time-table is based upon hitherto reliable information received from the German military, who have been extremely frank, if not boastful about their ability to overrun Europe.

According to this time-table, Hitler will wait about six weeks to consolidate his bases on the Dutch coast, then launch his air attack armada against Britain.

However, the time-table was worked out some time ago, and some observers believe that Hitler's swift victory over Holland will be so devastating, that the Nazis will move against England within a very short time.

Regarding the outcome of this attack, U. S. military strategists are extremely pessimistic. They believe that with its tremendous air armada, Germany can subdue England in relatively short order.

A DAY WITH FDR

It is interesting to compare the old rumors about the President's health with the way he is working under the war strain. He has worn out most of the men around him.

Two days before Hitler invaded Holland, there was a false alarm that German troops had crossed the border. So at 11 that night, Summer Wells, fast asleep, got a call on the private White House phone beside his bed. Roosevelt was up. He asked Welles to come to the White House.

The President remained up and busy on the transatlantic telephone until after 2 a. m.

Two nights later, when Hitler actually moved in to Holland, Roosevelt finally went to bed at 3 a. m. But more reports kept coming in, so that he remained in bed awake. The last report arrived at 4 a. m., when Ambassador Bullitt called him from Paris.

By 8 a. m. the President was up again, and by 8:30 had signed the executive order freezing Belgian and Dutch funds in the United States.

Then he put in his regular day, plus time taken out to receive the Belgian and Dutch envoys. Finally, at 5 p. m. he stopped work and began dictating the speech he was to deliver to the American Scientific Conference that evening.

This was finished about 6:30. Then while the speech was being typed, Roosevelt took a swim, snatched a bite to eat, and delivered his speech at 9:30 p. m. He had kept going for almost 24 hours.

LATIN AMERICA NEXT??

A Latin American Ambassador who is popular in Washington social circles was receiving the condolences of his friends just after Hitler started to blitzkrieg Holland.

"Too bad for you," his friends said. "South America will be next. Hitler will want to take your raw materials."

"Too bad for me?" shot back the Ambassador. "You mean too bad for you. You are the upholders of the Monroe (Continued on Page Six)

WITH A SIMPLE set of facts to work from, a fine deductive player can reach conclusions on some deals which result in making the prettiest sort of plays. The mere failure of a player to lead the suit bid by his partner may furnish the necessary clue to every vital fact needed by the declarer who thinks. If it is clear the suit was not so long that he was void in it, then he must be ducking a lead away from an honor. Going further, if the suit bidder did not hold that honor, then he must have a certain other honor in another suit. And so on, and so on.

FIVE YEARS AGO

Four Pickaway Township High School girls narrowly escaped serious injury when the automobile of E. H. Althaus, a faculty member, turned over one and one-half miles from the school. Katherine Temple, Essie Cantor, Ella Mae Stapleton and Margaret Hardesty were in the car, Miss Temple driving.

Earl Hickie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hickie, New Holland, was appointed editor of the New Holland Leader, a weekly publication, to succeed Ervin Ater, who planned to study newspaper management.

Frank Fischer, superintendent of Circleville Schools, was selected to deliver the Memorial day address at exercises in Forest cemetery following the parade in the morning.

A night school session at which parents and friends of Circleville high and grade school pupils would be permitted to visit was arranged for Thursday, May 22.

A large flower bed in front of the court house had been planted with about 400 plants including 300 cannas of various shades of red, and 100 salvia plants, which were to border the bed.

Miss Elizabeth Dunlap and Miss Ruth Holman honored Miss Josephine Peters at an evening bridge party. Miss Peters was to marry Mr. Harold J. Bowers June 12.

terday, Mr. Hazen had to build a squeeze position on this one. When West led the club 8, he reasoned that a spade would have been led unless West had the guarded king; in this event East must have some other high honor for his bid. When the heart A then dropped the singleton K, he reckoned it must be the diamond K. He led a heart to the Q and, when West returned the diamond 6, he came up with the A.

Next came a heart, then three clubs, for a diamond discard. The crucial play then was the diamond Q, covered by the K and ruffed. This transferred the high diamond from East's K to West's J. Hearts were run then. When the last was led West was squeezed between his diamond J, as the dummy had the 10, and his two spades, both declarer and dummy having two of them. Had the diamond K been allowed to stay with East, he could have guarded that suit while West protected the spades.

THE CHARACTERS:
BENJAMIN MERRIFIELD, aged capitalist, hires
GAYLE DIXON to make love to his grandson.
JEREMY TUCKER, a shy student of archeology, while BILL BAILEY and six pretty girls are employed to help bring life and youth to the Merrifield mansion.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN
GAYLE HAD a succession of minor problems to solve on Tuesday morning. She had scarcely finished her breakfast when Celeste, the chambermaid hired for her personal benefit, came to her with regrets that she would have to resign.

"There's been an emergency, miss," Celeste said. "I must go at once. I will send someone from the agency for you, though."

The new maid came before noon. She seemed efficient and well-mannered, had adequate references, Gayle gave her the job, with Mr. Weems' approval. Her name was Maudie and she was quite plain of face.

Before noon, too, there was a difficulty with a trades union man, who came protesting the fact that the orchestra hired for that night was non-union. Bill had engaged musicians from his own college crowd, youngsters he knew could play well.

The decorator with his flowers, Wallace, the cook, with his plans for refreshments (he would tolerate no outside caterer), both had to be helped, and Gayle seemed to do most of their thinking. Bill had forgotten to tell the six other girls not to come that day, and so they showed up for "work" at 8 a. m. as usual.

For an hour the girls just stood around, trying to help, but in the way, really. Finally Gayle had an inspiration. She dashed upstairs to the library and grabbed Jeremy by the lapels.

"Jeremy, you've got to come and help me a bit. This is your party anyway. Look! The girls for the play are here, but there is simply no time now for rehearsals in the house. Won't you drop your library work for once and go help them?"

Jeremy looked very serious. Al-most shocked, in fact.

"H-help them? You mean—"

"Sure. Be a sport, please. Take them out on the lawn—it's grand out this morning—and find a shady spot and talk to them."

"Talk to them?" Jeremy was at a loss for proper words.

"Sure. Just, well, lecture them on the drama, and help them rehearse the play. They are delightful girls, really. Jeremy, you must cultivate friendships among them, among all young people like that. Why, we'll begin to think you are an old stick-in-the-mud!"

She smiled sweetly at him to take the thorns out of her reprisal, but he understood the truth of her warning. As a matter of fact, he quite realized his need for experience among girls. He had been secretly reading works on etiquette and conversation of late, anyway. He really wanted to do what Gayle asked.

"Thanks! I knew you would, Jeremy. Come on."

He hadn't even nodded an assent, but she took his arm and led him happily downstairs. His heart was beating quite fast when they came to the six girls sitting now on the broad sun porch, chatting. "You girls can take your play scripts and go out on the lawn shade and rehearse with Jeremy," Gayle said, brightly. "Do it well, now. He can read all the male parts for you. And one of you play mine for me. Seat now, we're all busy in here."

They scattered.

Mr. Jeremy Tucker never quite understood how it happened, but a swarm of loveliness seemed to engulf him and he found himself propelled among them. Fortunately he had nothing to say, because the six girls all seemed to be talking at once and he would have had no opportunity.

In the little walk toward a grove of great oak trees, he looked helplessly around and observed that only five girls were talking, actually. The olive-skinned Lola Mon-tema, was saying nothing, but she did look happy and gay. Quite unconsciously, Jeremy edged to be nearer her.

Tempe Hyde was clinging to his elbow in carefree comradeship.

In a moment, though, bubbly little Tempe Hyde was clinging to his elbow in care-free comradeship, and that disturbed him tremendously.

"Laugh, Jeremy!" she commanded. "Life is not a funeral."

"Ha, ha," said Jeremy. It was a mechanical ha-ha, not a laugh at all.

Still, when he glanced self-consciously around, nobody appeared to have noticed particularly. This relaxed him a little. He felt better.

When they had all sat gracefully on the cool grass, and Jeremy had tucked his rather long legs somehow under him, he realized that he felt a strange sense of enjoyment in all this. The exact nature of it was elusive, but it was good. It was as if he were being—well, accepted. He was one of them. In a gang, a group, a group of friends, as if he belonged there. It was a new experience to him, accustomed to playing lone wolf in everything.

He found himself tremendously interested in the small talk they were constantly making. He wanted, now, to laugh with them when there was a merry quip, and he daringly did so. Nothing happened! He had laughed genuinely, and liked it, and nobody had stared at him in surprise. Something very real and very precious began to swell within him.

There was a quarter-hour of talk about everything and nothing, centering mainly on the dance that night, but it was finally interrupted by the dark girl, Lola.

"I think maybe we should rehearse, no?" she suggested. Lola's voice had a delightful Spanish flavor.

"I think so, Lola," Tempe mocked her a little, and everyone laughed at that. "You well be there heroine first, no?"

Lola agreed. She could take Gayle's part because her own was a comparatively small bit in act three only. Jeremee, he well be there hero. Beel's part."

Then it was that consternation assailed Jeremy anew.

He had forgotten, momentarily, about the kissing scene! He had been tried already for the male lead, had kissed Gayle Dixon three times and, to his later shame, ran off ignominiously. Now here these girls were just naturally assuming that he would read the part again with them and act it out as well. His heart went thumping.

"I—I—" he started a protest, but nobody heard him.

They were suddenly all chattering at once again. Jeremy had been assigned the male lead; nobody had even thought further about it, save him. They were interested in their own parts. They had much to say. Coachings. Suggestions. Plannings.

Out and about the ville earlier than usual, having glimpsed the clock from an unusual angle and believing the time an hour earlier than it actually was. Did not become aware of the fact until I found streets deserted. Well, I did enjoy the fine quiet of an early Spring day in this pretty ville.

Scanned the war news and found that Hitler continues his advance and that the Allies continue falling back to prepared positions. Seems to me that the Allies would have done much better to have at least kept up in the armament race with the nation they had forbidden to arm after the last World War. That is the phase of this situation I just can not understand. England and France must have known what was going on with Germany during all of these years. Why didn't they disarm Germany before she became too strong for handling.

Read a dispatch from Europe to the effect that Berlin this time has no fear of American entry into the war because in the belief of German military experts the U. S. could not become a factor in the war inside of two years. Probably they are right, too. Give a little thought to that German opinion. We could not prepare ourselves to fight inside of two years. I fear very much that an army intent on invading the Americas would not remain at sea two years while we completed reception plans.

Everyone says we should be prepared for any eventuality. A few days ago everyone seemed to think we will be reasonably safe if we remain on our side of the Atlantic. Little thought was being given to armament. Then the President delivered his address before the congress and now everyone is in favor of arming to the hilt. The scrivener always has been in favor of adequate armament, armament so strong that no nation or possible group of nations will even consider attacking us. Yes, such a program is expensive, but not so costly as the loss of liberty. I do not say that Germany, Russia or Japan would attack us. I do not know now, but I do know that they would not attack us were the fact plainly evident that we were prepared and too strong for them. I just do not like fighting and I would rather be in the position of the man who is feared and therefore not molested than in the position of the man who is knocked down and used for a footstool.

ARMING FOR PEACE

UNCLE SAM at last stops fooling around and starts putting his house in order. And not merely his living room (which doesn't mean in America what it does in Germany) but also his dining room, kitchen, basement and attic, and also his front and back yards. There will be guns mounted now, and ammunition stored, and other necessities of life accumulated against a time of positive siege. There will be better policing and better equipment for Uncle to get around upon his lawful occasions.

It will cost money. Everybody knows that. But it will cost far less than failure to take such precautions. The last war has been estimated as costing us somewhere between 100 billions and the financial stratosphere. Another war, if we got into it on the scale now becoming standard, might cost us about everything we've got.

It will be said by some critical or timid citizens that we're arming "to fight Germany again." More likely we're arming to avoid that. The surest way to get into a war with Nazified Germany is, not to be ready for it.

Hitler, with all his craziness, has a little wheel of expediency. He doesn't attack anybody that he isn't sure to lick. Neither do the other modern Attilas and Genghis Khans.

BIGOTRY VS. LIBERTY

THE Council Against Intolerance, at its conference in New York City, discussed particularly "tolerance through education." The council believes that "the American people are menaced today by forces which seek to destroy liberty through bigotry," and that "those forces are attempting to foment racial and religious intolerance through the school, the home and among teachers." It will therefore conduct its counter-movement through those same channels.

Confidence in the judgment and honesty of this organization is inspired by such names in its membership as William Allen White, Carrie Chapman Catt, Governor Lehman of New York, Alfred E. Smith, Hugh Johnson and Senator Wagner.

Young children know no racial or national intolerance, but they have a fierce loyalty to parents, early teachers and friends. They learn intolerance from these idols, if intolerance is there to be learned. The practical problem, then, lies in educating adults in tolerance while teaching the youngsters to retain their natural gift for equality and fair play. If democracy really means as much to us as we say, there should be widespread co-operation with the Council in this important work.

A time may come when people boycott every radio program whose announcer yells at them.

NAZI VICTORY OVER DUTCH AHEAD

WASHINGTON—U. S. intelligence reports have worked out what they call the "Hitler Time-Table", giving the approximate time at which he will attack each country. The time-table is based upon hitherto reliable information received from the German military, who have been extremely frank, if not boastful about their ability to overrun Europe.

According to this time-table, Hitler will wait about six weeks to consolidate his bases on the Dutch coast, then launch his air attack armada against Britain.

However, the time-table was worked out some time ago, and some observers believe that Hitler's swift victory over Holland will be so devastating, that the Nazis will move against England within a very short time.

Regarding the outcome of this attack, U. S. military strategists are extremely pessimistic. They believe that with its tremendous air armada, Germany can subdue England in relatively short order.

A DAY WITH FDR

It is interesting to compare the old rumors about the President's health with the way he is working under the war strain. He has worn out most of the men around him.

Two days before Hitler invaded Holland, there was a false alarm that German troops had crossed the border. So at 11 that night, Sumner Wells, fast asleep, got a call on the private White House phone beside his bed. Roosevelt was up. He asked Welles to come to the White House.

The President remained up and busy on the transatlantic telephone until after 2 a. m.

Two nights later, when Hitler actually moved in to Holland, Roosevelt finally went to bed at 3 a. m. But more reports kept coming in, so that he remained in bed awake. The last report arrived at 4 a. m., when Ambassador Bullitt called him from Paris.

By 8 a. m. the President was up again, and by 8:30 had signed the executive order freezing Belgian and Dutch funds in the United States.

Then he put in his regular day, plus time taken out to receive the Belgian and Dutch envoys. Finally, at 5 p. m. he stopped work and began dictating the speech he was to deliver to the American Scientific Conference that evening.

This was finished about 6:30. Then while the speech was being typed, Roosevelt took a swim, snatched a bite to eat, and delivered his speech at 9:30 p. m. He had kept going for almost 24 hours.

LATIN AMERICA NEXT??

A Latin American Ambassador who is popular in Washington social circles was receiving the condolences of his friends just after Hitler started to blitzkrieg Holland.

"Too bad for you," his friends said. "South America will be next. Hitler will want to take your raw materials."

"Too bad for me?" shot back the Ambassador. "You mean too bad for you. You are the upholders of the Monroe (Continued on Page Six)

PRETTY DEEP FIGURING

WITH A SIMPLE set of facts to work from, a fine deductive player can reach conclusions on some deals which result in making the prettiest sort of plays. The mere failure of a player to lead the suit bid by his partner may furnish the necessary clue to every vital fact needed by the declarer who thinks. If it is clear the suit was not so long that he was void in it, then he must be ducking a lead away from an honor. Going further, if the suit bidder did not hold that honor, then he must have a certain other honor in another suit. And so on, and so on.

North's jump to slam was a beautiful example of sublime faith in his partner, Lee Hazen, who has been gaining more and more fame for his fine work in national championships. Going for a slam with the opponents holding three kings, a queen, two jacks, two tens and two of the highest three trump honors, makes quite an assignment.

As with the hand shown yesterday, Mr. Hazen had to build a squeeze position on this one. When West led the club 8, he reasoned that a spade would have been led unless West had the guarded king; in this event East must have some other high honor for his bid. When the heart A, he then dropped the singleton K, he reckoned it must be the diamond K. He led a heart to the Q and, when West returned the diamond 6, he came up with the A.

Hearts were run then. When the last was led West was squeezed between his diamond J, as the dummy had the 10, and his two spades, both declarer and dummy having two of them. Had the diamond K been allowed to stay with East, he could have guarded that suit while West protected the spades.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE RETIRES.

We didn't get a chance to read the farewell address of the Grand Old Lady of the Screen, but we'll bet it went something like this: "Goodbye—see you all in Junior high."

All we can say is that after this war the French and Belgians are going to have plenty of competition for the See-the-Ruins-of-the-Great-Conflict trade.

IT'S A DATE!

Annual O.E.S. Inspection Exercises Are Conducted

More Than 200 Take Part In Ceremony In Circleville

Over 200 members and visitors attended the annual inspection of the Circleville Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, Friday, which was an event of outstanding interest. The chapter room, Masonic Temple, was a lovely scene with its numerous baskets of spring flowers, myriads of lighted candles adding to the beauty of the white satin covered altar and star point pedestals.

A delicious dinner was served at 6 p. m. at the "Hurricane". The various tables were beautifully decorated with bowls of flowers, and attractive favors were found at each place.

Miss Bertha Valentine, worthy matron, and J. S. Morris, worthy patron, were hosts at the table reserved for the grand officers.

At eight o'clock, the officers attired in their aqua lace gowns, entered the chapter room and the worthy matron immediately welcomed Miss Gladys A. Thomas, of Niles worthy grand matron, to a place in the East. While Miss Thomas was at the altar, Miss Marie Hamilton presented her a gift from Circleville Chapter and a certificate of honorary membership.

When the worthy matron invited Miss Thomas to preside, she graciously consented to do so, and in those few moments, she welcomed to the East Circleville's own past grand matron, Miss Hamilton, and past grand patron, Charles C. Chappeler. The worthy grand matron instructed the officers to take their stations and then returned the gavel to Miss Valentine who opened the ritualistic work of the chapter.

Mrs. T. R. Acord, conductress, presented the following distinguished guests who were cordially invited to the East by the worthy matron: Mrs. Minnie Vornhider, Dover Center, Mrs. Ella Lathrop, Cincinnati, past grand matrons; Chester Pearce, Bellefontaine, past grand patron; Mrs. Mary Weatherill, Mrs. Helen K. Reid, Mrs. Marvel Whitmer, Mrs. Louise M. Sherwood, Mrs. Florence H. Alexander, Mrs. Eleanor Geist, Mrs. Florence Reed and Mrs. Carrie Pearce, grand representatives; Mrs. Flossie B. Kiltan, grand marshal; Mrs. Mary Voll, grand electa; Mrs. Edna Taber, grand Esther; Mrs. Netta Sullivan, grand warder; Mrs. Marie McElree, Mrs. Margaret Hawthorne, Mrs. Helen Eystone, Mrs. Lucille Milner, deputy grand matrons and Mrs. Olive Hurst of Williamsport, deputy grand matron of the twenty-third district.

A large number of 1940 worthy matrons and patrons were present and welcomed by Miss Valentine and Mr. Morris.

A very appreciative audience observed the initiatory work which was exemplified by Circleville's corps of officers in an impressive manner, a grade of "Excellent" being received.

The meeting was brought to a close with a splendid address by Miss Thomas and appropriate remarks by other grand officers.

The Inspection Breakfast was served at the Pickaway Country Club at 10 o'clock Saturday for the pleasure of Miss Thomas and other visitors remaining overnight.

The details of the breakfast were planned by Mrs. F. K. Blair, president of the Social Club, who, with Mrs. W. E. Hilyard, graciously welcomed the guests as they arrived.

The tables were tastefully decorated with small bowls of flowers under the direction of Mrs. Fred Moeller.

Thirty-five members were present for the meeting of the Jackson Handicraft Club Thursday at the home of Mrs. Earl Wolfe, Jackson Township. Mrs. Marvin Steeley and Mrs. Luther List of the Circleville community were guests for the party.

Refreshments were served at the close of the affair by Mrs. Wolfe and her assistants including Mrs. Ralph Walters, Mrs. Olaf Thorne and Miss Josephine Wolfe. The next session will be at the Jackson Township School June 6.

Birthday Party

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Waple of Saltcreek Township entertained recently in honor of their daughter, Nancy Lou, who was seven years old. Lovely birthday gifts were received from the guests.

Those present were Mrs. Ella Goddard, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Black of Circleville; Mrs. Peter Waple and son, Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hildebrand and children, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wright and children, Mrs. E. C. Wilkins of Pickaway Township and Julius Wright of Kingston.

Regional Meeting

Mrs. Donald H. Watt, Mrs. Ralph Curtin, Mrs. Ella Hornbeck, Mrs. Mack Noggle, Mrs. Glen L. Nickerson and Mrs. Helen E. Anderson of the Pickaway County Garden Club attended the Regional meeting of the Ninth District of Garden Clubs Friday in the First Presbyterian Church of Lancaster. The Circleville club tied for second place in attendance with the Scioto Garden Club of Chillicothe.

After registration at 10 a. m., Mayor J. W. Huddle presented the key to the city to the convention and declared the town open to all visiting garden club members.

Mrs. O. L. Erick pronounced the invocation, followed by announcements by Mrs. M. G. Fenton of Chillicothe, regional director. "Annual Flower's for Ohio" was the subject of the talk by Prof. Victor Ries of Ohio State University, who showed slides in connection with his discussion.

A string ensemble of high school students presented music, after which lunch was served.

The afternoon meeting opened with some excellent music by Freida Reilly Doughty, the club presidents reporting at 2 o'clock. Prof. Ries closed the convention with his illustrated talk on "Less Common Flowers You Can Grow."

One hundred were present for the luncheon, with about 200 attending the lecture hours.

Presbyterian Social Club

The Women's Social Club of the Presbyterian Church met Friday in the social room, officers for the coming year, being elected during the business hour. Mrs. Donald H. Watt was named president; Mrs. Ray Davis, vice president, and Mrs. Leslie May, secretary.

This was the last session of the series and marked the annual entertainment for the men of the church.

The program presented by men was an interesting and delightful feature of the affair, Hunter Chambers playing two excellent piano solos for the opening number. His selections were "Valze" by Chopin and "Liebesfreude" by Kreisler.

Fred Clark read the paper on "Mothers and Mothers-in-law" which he had presented before the Eagles Lodge at Logan on Mother's Day.

T. E. Wilson brought many a laugh to the audience with his color motion pictures of the last Pumpkin Show and his camera recorded showing of a day as enjoyed by a group of Circleville men in a fishing camp in Canada.

Mrs. G. G. Campbell, president, opened the meeting by reading a short poem, "Bearing Life's Burdens." Mrs. Leland Pontius, secretary, reported.

Mrs. B. T. Hedges, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the slate of officers, other committee members including Mrs. Charles Dresbach and Mrs. Charles Naumann. The Rev. Robert T. Kelsey closed the business session with a brief prayer.

Refreshments were served after the program from a lace covered table centered with a bowl of spirea and dark red tulips.

The hospitality committee was comprised of Mrs. Boyd Trout, Mrs. Kelsey, Mrs. Lemuel Weldon, Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. Franklin Price, Mrs. Frederick Howell, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Marvin and Mrs. George Steeley and Mrs. Harp Van Riper.

NEW GUIDEBOOK

CHICAGO—The National Restaurant Association has written a book which should be a best-seller among America's tourists. The book, "A Guide to Popular Restaurants," lists and approves 1,000 eating places located in every state in the union, so the traveler need never be at a loss for an eating place when he gets hungry.

HS SENIORS PLAN VARIED ACTIVITY

Winding up four years of high school study, C. H. S. seniors are planning a "grand finale" of varied interests. Before commencement exercises, class members plan several educational tours to Columbus and local business establishments. Tom Harden, class president, has named a committee of James Denman, Margaret Goode and Thelma Winner to arrange these excursions.

Although no prospective date has yet been fixed, a committee made up of Mary Jane Bowers, Jane Paul, Clarence Thorne, Regina Thornton and Robert Wallace is busily planning the annual senior class dance. Members of the class are to bring guests to this dance.

A skating party is also planned by class members and Margaret Goode has been appointed to make arrangements for this affair.

Last on the senior's program will be a picnic. This picnic will conclude the seniors' activities in C. H. S.

CHS BAND TAKES PART IN PARADE

Circleville high school was one of the two schools represented by their bands Sunday, May 12, at Camp Sherman. The C. H. S. band took part in the annual parade at the Veterans hospital at Chillicothe. Jackson high school furnished the other band.

Band members started from the high school at 12:00 noon in order to be prepared for the engagement at 1:00 p. m.

Marches the band played alternately, were:

Hinky Dinky Parley Voo . . . Briegel Golden SpurWeber

On June 5, the band is planning to join a celebration at Lancaster. There will be a parade to celebrate the dedication of a new hotel. Expenses will be defrayed by the hotel management.

Twelve other bands will participate in this event which will be held in the afternoon at 2:00 p. m.

JR. CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL BANQUET

Candles, spring flowers and place-card programs decorated the dinner table of the annual Junior Girl Reserve Mother-Daughter banquet, Thursday evening, May 16, 1940.

During the dinner hour the Girl Reserves and their guests enjoyed a three course dinner of tomato cocktail, creamed chicken, creamed peas and carrots, parsley potatoes, jello vegetable salad, ice cream and cake and coffee.

After dinner, President Margaret Boggs delivered an opening address, and introduced to the guests the incoming officers for 1940-41. They are Florence Dresbach, president; Julia Jane Work, vice president; Martha Pike, secretary and Viola Arledge, treasurer. Mrs. John Boggs responded to Margaret's address by thanking the club and Miss Alice Roof, club adviser, for their cooperation in all that the organization undertook to accomplish.

Miss Roof followed with the awards for those girls who were outstanding in the club's activities. Those who received awards are: Freshmen, Viola Arledge and Florence Dresbach; Sophomores, Dorothy Cook, Dorothy Ann Dresbach, Margaret Ann Grose, Lois Madison and Betty Moeller. They were awarded Girl Reserve necklaces of blue and silver. Margaret Boggs was awarded a past president's pin for her able direction and leadership of the Junior Girl Reserves.

Entertainment for the evening consisted of a piano solo by Mary Catherine Stein, a poem by Rosemary Brown, a monologue by Anna Sue Reichelderfer and an accordion solo by Dorothy Glenn. The banquet was concluded at the end of this program.

The Junior Girl Reserves wish to thank those Senior Girl Reserves who served for this affair.

EDITORIAL

Has It Been In Vain?

While European boys and girls were fighting toward unknown ends, Circleville pupils were striving to prepare for life—this is the general description one can logically draw if he looks back upon activity in C. H. S. during the last year. Although interests of pupils have been varied, nearly every boy and girl has taken advantage of at least one of the many opportunities our system of education provides.

Scholastic achievement has been the backbone of the entire year's work. Under a newly inaugurated system of six class periods daily, C. H. S. pupils have been taught the fundamentals of a highly varied curriculum. Evidence to show pupils scholastic interests was demonstrated when a local scholarship team made an excellent standing in district-state tests—25 out of the 35 ranked among the first 20.

However, high school interests have not stopped with these essentials. School spirit—an uncommon thing in modern high schools—has developed to such an extent that we now boast of one of the best bands in central Ohio, a commendable record of athletic achievements, and an agreeable system of extra-curricular and social activity.

Circleville high pupils have learned how to mix this social activity with regular school work. Clubs have shown increased ability to accomplish successfully their many projects. The Hi-Y club has realized a system of bicycle racks to aid in local traffic regulation and to increase the beauty of the school. Glee club members, debaters and artists have also shown their ability in their respective fields.

General acceptance of a "vocational guidance forum" by pupils was a step toward preparation for life in society.

It is impossible for one to enumerate even part of the achievements attained by Circleville High during this last year and few have been present in classes for no purpose. Although C. H. S. is far from a perfect school, pupils look back with satisfaction at their past year's activities and invite the public to share their pride by boasting a class A school.

Pupils realize the results of an

These volumes are ready for lending, and many more books are expected before this school term is completed.

DEWEY PARK IS SCENE OF PICNIC

"Hey guy, where'd you put the mustard?"

"Oh heck, my hot dog fell in the fire."

It's not hard to guess that a picnic was in progress. The time last Monday from 4:30 to 8:00 o'clock; the place, Dewey Park; persons involved, Hi-Y club of Circleville Hi.

Starting at 5:00 a thrilling game of baseball sprang up. This game lasted till 7:00 when the cry "Come and get it!" broke up the contest.

From that time on food was put away and I don't mean in automobiles. At 8:00 o'clock the boys, having enough to eat, started for home.

CLUB HOLDS CONTEST

Juniors and Seniors of C. H. S. are eligible to participate in an essay contest sponsored by the Papyrus Club. The contestants may write on any subject. The essays are to be 1000-1500 words in length.

Deadline for entries is Monday at 4:00. The entries are to be given to Miss Margaret Rooney who will submit them to the club's judges, Miss Jeanette Reichelderfer, Loren L. Pace and Rev. L. C. Sherburne. Originality and clarity of thought will be considered in the judging for winners.

VARIOUS CLUBS NAME OFFICERS FOR COMING YEAR

In preparation for their next year's activities, five C. H. S. clubs held elections this week to select leaders. Hi-Y club has named Jack Beck, president; Paul Turner, vice-president; Robert Melvin, secretary; David Betz, treasurer; and Russell Liston, sergeant-at-arms. This cabinet replaces present leaders headed by Gale Hitchcock, president.

Stooge club members gave Robert Brown the position of new president at their meeting Tuesday evening. Bob will be aided by Harry Clifton, vice-president; William Thornton, secretary; Frank Geib, treasurer; and Clark Martin, sergeant-at-arms. Stooges this year, under the direction of Howard Orr, have accomplished varied projects in connection with athletic development at the school.

Leland Siegwald was selected to replace Norma Jean Brown as president of the E. M. S. at its regular meeting Wednesday. Other officers are Mary Ruth Owens, vice-president; Dolly Madison, secretary-treasurer; and Robert Moon, sergeant-at-arms. E. M. S. projects are designed to further literary development and study.

Wednesday after school the high school Senior Girl Reserves held their regular meeting and election. At this time Helen Beck was elected president, Joan Downing, vice-president; Norma Jean Wolfe, secretary; and Stella Mae Skinner, treasurer.

All clubs asked that their advisers remain with their clubs—Stooge, Virgil Cress; Hi-Y, Thomas Armstrong; E. M. S., Miss Margaret Rooney; Sr. Girl Reserves, Miss Elma Rains; and Jr. Girl Reserves, Miss Alice Roof.

Sketch and Poetry clubs will elect officers next week.

RESERVES HOLD ANNUAL AFFAIR

Thirty-six Senior Girl Reserves entertained their mothers and other guests at a Mother-Daughter banquet in the social room, Monday at 6:30.

Tables were decorated with spring flowers, and at each place was a pink carnation corsage. Menu for the dinner consisted of chicken patties, mashed potatoes and gravy, green beans, spring salad, hot rolls, coffee, ice cream and cake.

President Mabel Noggle greeted the guests, and in the absence of Mrs. Noggle, Mrs. C. D. Bennett responded on behalf of the mothers.

A short program was presented by the music group, accompanied by Mrs. Melvin Kiger. The program follows:

The First PrimroseGrieg
The World is Waiting for the SunriseHeitz

Girls in the chorus were Margaret Adkins, Pat Bennett, Joan Downing, Pollyanne Friedman, Mary Kathryn Pile, Mary Adele Snider and Regina Thornton.

CHS ORCHESTRA HOLDS PRACTICES

Under the direction of Charles Zaenglein, the high school orchestra is rehearsing for its last public appearance this year.

Next Monday, May 20, the orchestra will play at the Jackson Township commencement. This unit will take part in a concert with the Senior, Junior and Beginners' bands, May 29, and on June 3, will furnish music for the commencement of Circleville's graduating class.

Plans were discussed at orchestra practice for this group's annual picnic. Mr. Zaenglein appointed a committee of Glenn Barnhart, Margaret Boggs, Mary Kathryn Pile and Jack Simmon to set a date for this affair and provide the food.

effective school year and with this in mind seem determined to repeat their work next year.

STARS SAY—

For Saturday, May 18

ACCORDING to an interesting chain of mutual aspects, with an intriguing congeries of curious, subtle or bewildering astral forces, there should be some perplexing adventures in the realm of the spiritual intellectual, emotional, social or artistic expression. There may be thrilling, novel, unique or even glamorous occurrences with either romantic fulfillments or mystical experiences of an unpredictable and unprecedented nature. Under such stimuli there could be surprising accomplishments in creative forms or emotional urges culminating in inexpressible flights of fancy. The intuitions are keen and the inner urges unorthodox and audacious. The young may marry.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of peculiar, novel or extraordinary adventures, expressed in mental, spiritual, emotional or romantic forms, according to the position and development. With the young and eligible it may be romantic marriage or even elopement.

A child born on this day may be versatile and creative in some advanced cultural or intellectual form. While romantic and unorthodox or unconventional, it may be genial, gracious, friendly and worldly wise.

For Sunday, May 19

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds testimonies of a very interesting and perhaps eventful day, with much pertaining to conventional Sabbath activities under high pressure. New matters pertinent to church and clerical plans are due to succeed despite firm opposition from elders and superiors, as well as group impediments. Perseverance and sound plans win the day, but keep firm control on tongue and temper.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a very lively and enterprising year, with the energies and faculties under high tension. New projects of an ambitious nature should move resolutely toward progress and stability in spite of determined opposition and obstacles. Initiative and industry win out. In purely personal relations there may be much festivity and probably romance.

A child born on this day may be energetic, aggressive and ambitious, ready to work hard for its objectives and to vanquish stubborn obstacles and possible hostility from high places. It may win popularity and good fortune.

Oil from the sunken vessels is covering the water for miles and the birds get smothered when they alight for food. Fishermen are destroying them as it has been found impossible to remove the oil. Among birds found on Bacton, Norfolk, beach were wild duck, gulls, razorbills, divers and grebes.

McDowell Boy's Score Makes Him Second High In Eighth Grade Test

George D. McDowell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George D. McDowell of Ashville, was honored Saturday at a ceremony in Memorial Hall, Columbus, when the Ohio Board of Education announced that his grade of 194 out of a possible 200 in the recent Ohio eighth grade test was the second highest in the state. Young McDowell, whose father is superintendent of Pickaway County schools, was awarded a certificate showing that only one other person received a higher grade than he, that being Patricia M. LaBadie of Sts. Peter and Paul School, Ottawa. Her grade was not disclosed.

WOMAN COOKS PREFERRED
LONDON—British soldiers do not like high-class cooking, according to Member of Parliament Captain Leonard Plugge. He has asked the War Minister to substitute women cooks for the London chefs at present preparing food for the Tommies.

RENO DIVORCES NOT VALID
NEWCASTLE, Eng.—Reno divorces are not valid in England, according to Justice Croom-Johnson. "It is just as well that English people domiciled in this country should know that Reno divorces are not worth the paper they are written on, but the jurisdiction in the United States," he said during a recent divorce case here.

CONSIDER 'POOL' BEER
LONDON—The last stronghold of the British working man may be breached by the Government. After discussion with Ministry of Food officials brewers are considering marketing "pool" beer, in order to save barley. A canvass of saloon owners, however, reveals that the British workman will have the beer he wants or none at all, so the scheme may fall through.

STARS SAY—

For Saturday, May 18

ACCORDING to an interesting chain of mutual aspects, with an intriguing congeries of curious,
subtle or bewildering astral forces, there should be some perplexing adventures in the realm of the spiritual intellectual, emotional, social or artistic expression. There may be thrilling, novel, unique or even glamorous occurrences with either romantic fulfillments or mystical experiences of an unpredictable and unprecedented nature. Under such stimuli there could be surprising accomplishments in creative forms or emotional urges culminating in inexplicable flights of fancy. The intuitions are keen and the inner urges unorthodox and audacious.
The young may marry.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of peculiar, novel or extraordinary adventures, expressed in mental, spiritual, emotional or romantic forms, according to the position and development. With the young and eligible it may be romantic marriage or even elopement.

A child born on this day may be versatile and creative in some advanced cultural or intellectual form. While romantic and unorthodox or unconventional, it may be genial, gracious, friendly and worldly wise.

For Sunday, May 19

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds testimonies of a very interesting and perhaps eventful day, with much pertaining to conventional Sabbath activities under high pressure. New matters pertinent to church and clerical plans are due to succeed despite firm opposition from elders and superiors, as well as group impediments. Perseverance and sound plans win the day, but keep firm control on tongue and temper.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a very lively and enterprising year, with the energies and faculties under high tension.
New projects of an ambitious nature should move resolutely toward progress and stability in spite of determined opposition and obstacles. Initiative and industry win out. In purely personal relations there may be much festivity and probably romance.

A child born on this day may be energetic, aggressive and ambitious, ready to work hard for its objectives and to vanquish stubborn obstacles and possible hostility from high places. It may win popularity and good fortune.

BIRDS DIE ALONG COASTS
LONDON — Hundreds of sea-birds are lying dead around the coasts of Britain and others are slowly dying of starvation as a result of ships sinking. Oil from the sunken vessels is covering the water for miles and the birds get smothered when they alight for food. Fishermen are destroying them as it has been found impossible to remove the oil. Among birds found on Bacton, Norfolk, beach were wild duck, gulls, razors, bills, divers and grebes.

MAYOR CADY APPOINTS TRUSTEES TO OPERATE CIRCLEVILLE PLAYGROUND

SIX MEN NAMED AFTER COUNCIL ACCEPTS LAND

Committee Continues Work Of Solicitation For Needed Money

Circleville's playground program took another forward step Saturday when Mayor W. B. Cady announced appointment of a park board of trustees under whose supervision the 13-acre playground will be conducted.

The mayor's trustees include Frank A. Lynch, who could well be called the "father of the city playground" because of his activity in promoting the undertaking; Dan McClain, T. O. Gilliland, Harry L. Bartholomew, Earl A. Smith and Dwight Steele. An organization meeting of the board will be conducted in the near future.

Circleville council at its meeting Wednesday evening accepted the playground property in the city's name, a resolution drawn to that effect being voted.

Although the land has been purchased from the Voll heirs, solicitation for funds which will be used to properly equip the park is continuing with solicitors urging that persons interested in the playground cooperate by making contributions no matter how large or how small.

It is hoped to have the playground, which is north of Hargus Creek and west of Court Street in condition for organized play during the summer. Circleville at present is without a playground.

KIWANIANS TO ATTEND MEETING IN NEWARK

Kiwanis Club members will travel to Newark Monday evening to join in a district meeting which will be addressed by President Howard L. Bevis of Ohio State University.

Mainly About People

ONE MINUTE PULPIT Lead me, O Lord, in thy righteousness because of mine enemies; make thy way straight before my face.—Psalms 5:8.

Judge Carl V. Weyandt, chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court, will be the commencement speaker at Mount Sterling graduation exercises next Thursday. There are 30 in the graduating class.

The New Holland High School junior and senior banquet was conducted Friday evening at the Town House in Chillicothe. Covers were placed for 41 with Joe Asher acting as master of ceremonies.

Ross O. Wagstaff, widely known Hocking County engineer, died Friday in University Hospital, Columbus, after an operation.

A committee of Howard Hall post, American Legion, is busy making plans for the annual Memorial Day exercises scheduled to be May 30.

Fairfield County's Democratic primary brought one of the closest races in recent years when Dudley Crider defeated Ed Moore by 16 votes for the sheriff's nomination. Both men are deputies under Sheriff William Belhorn who did not run for reelection.

Dr. E. M. Dietrich, State Director of Education, will address the graduates at the commencement exercises of Jackson Township School Monday, May 20, at 8:15 p. m. in the school auditorium.

Mrs. Ellen Danis, 121 West Ohio Street, was admitted Saturday for medical treatment at Berger Hospital.

DIVISION OF AID HEARS REPORTS AND DISCUSSION

Dr. J. A. Calhoun of the State Bureau of Juvenile Delinquents, Columbus, discussed problems of juvenile delinquency before six members of the Board of Public Assistance at a meeting Friday in the jury room of the court house. Dr. Calhoun pointed out that the state bureau, established in 1914, averages about 80 boys' cases and 50 girls' cases in a two month period. He said that the aim of the department was to study and, if possible, solve the problems causing delinquency.

Mrs. Clark Will, president of the board, was in charge of the meeting. Miss Virginia Smith, investigator for the board, reported 150 cases of aid to dependent children. The money for the department for May amounted $1,492, the average grant per family being $25.72, and the average grant for each child, $9.95. Two applications were received and one grant terminated. Forty cases were cared for in the aid to the blind, with $640.66 available for the month, the average grant being $16.01. One grant was reported terminated, one allowed and three applications received.

It was announced at the meeting that the department of public assistance of Champaign County has planned the fourth of a series of luncheon meetings for boards, supervisors, commissioners and judges for May 24 at the Y. M. C. A. in Columbus. Warden Henderson of the Ohio Penitentiary, and Charles L. Sherwood, state director of public welfare, will be the speakers.

BUDAPEST FEARS PRESSURE FROM AXIS PARTNERS

BUDAPEST, May 18—Yugoslavia rushed huge new military forces to her Italian and German frontiers today while a new wave of fear gripped the country, according to dispatches from Belgrade.

All military aircraft were removed from these frontiers to a secret destination deep in Yugoslavia, it was reported, presumably to guard against "blitzkrieg" bombing tactics.

Belgrade was in a highly alarmed state and feared extension of the war to the Balkans was near. This fear was based on renewed Italian and German press campaigns against Yugoslavia, the reports said.

Politiki, Belgrade newspaper, expressed the hope that conversations today in Rome between Italian Foreign Minister Count Ciano and the Soviet Ambassador to Italy B. E. Stein might result in saving Yugoslavia's neutrality. In Budapest, Hungarian political circles consider that Hungarian-Yugoslavian friendship remains unchanged.

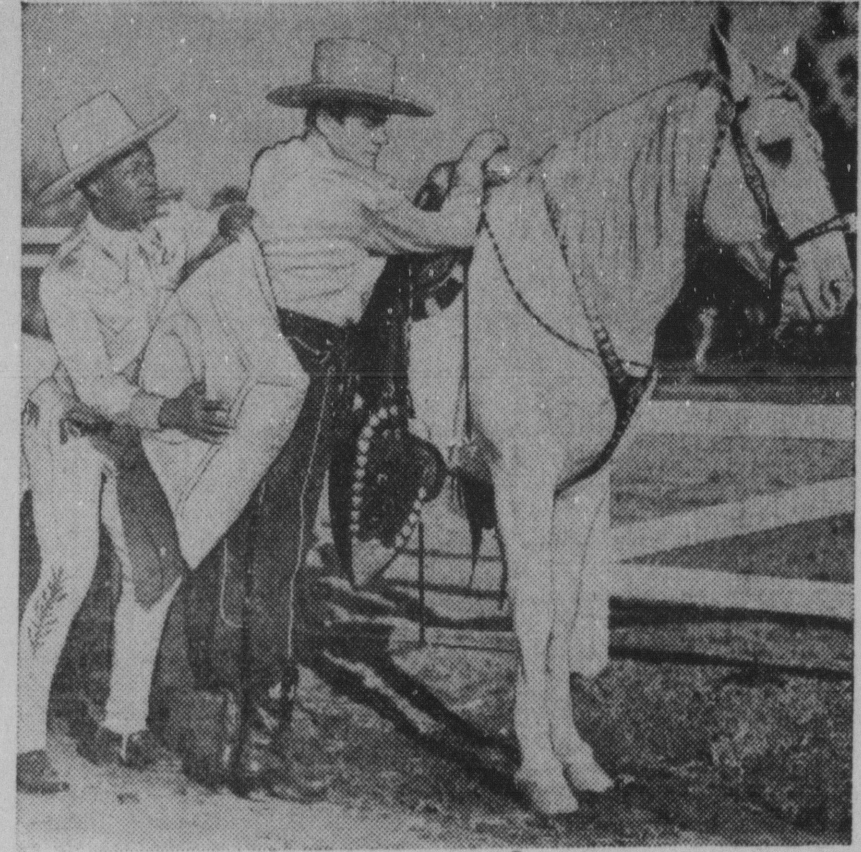

Theatres Present Varied Program Of Interest

BING Crosby, Gloria Jean and El Brendel are shown in one of the scenes of "If I Had My Way," the show that opens at the Grand Theatre Sunday.

EDWARD Arnold and Robert Montgomery star in "The Earl of Chicago," opening Sunday at the Circle Theatre to run through Tuesday.

"BUCK Benny Rides Again," which starts Sunday at the Cliftona Theatre, is fun from start to finish. The cast, which features Jack Benny and Ellen Drew, also includes Andy Devine, Phil Harris, Dennis Day, Rochester and Carmichael, the polar bear.

ADOLF MAY TRY TO FORCE ARMY UNIT INTO PARIS

Military Lance Now Only 100 Miles Away From French Metropolis

With military information issued by the German high command cautiously withholding details of specific developments until they are 24 hours old, in order to confuse enemy listeners, there is ground to assume that the debacle in France and Belgium is continuing without a setback to the Nazis.

The Germans are within long-range firing of Paris. Although not officially stated, it is the private opinion of informed Berlin circles that actually the German advance is in the region of Rheims and St. Quentin.

In some responsible German minds in Berlin, meanwhile, there is the speculative thought whether Hitler, after beating the bulk of the French army and when German troops stand in the ports of the English channel, might not give England a 24-hour ultimatum to capitulate unconditionally or go down under a grand-scale attack by air, land and sea.

Peace Offer To France

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Certain diplomatic quarters in London predicted a somewhat similar possibility—that in the event of German success on a thrust to Paris Hitler will call a halt to fighting on the Western Front, offer peace terms to France and concentrate German might against Britain. The London censor permitted dispatches of this nature to be transmitted to New York, along with authoritative French statements that France would accept no such peace terms but would fight alongside of Britain "to the end.")

MRS. LEWIS STOLTZ, 93, DIES IN ASHVILLE HOME

Mrs. Priscilla Marguerite Stoltz, 93, died Saturday at 7 a. m. at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. L. Spindler in Ashville. Mrs. Stoltz, a native of Perry County, born August 11, 1846, was the youngest of 11 children and the last of her family.

Her husband, Lewis Stoltz, has been dead many years.

Other survivors besides Mrs. Spindler are a son, J. P. Stoltz of Ashville and two other daughters, Mrs. Frank VanSickle of Somerset and Mrs. A. E. Davis of Columbus.

The funeral will be Monday at 2:30 p. m. at the Spindler home with burial in Reber Hill Cemetery by E. F. Schlegel, Ashville.

BITES HELD SATURDAY FOR WOMAN PHYSICIAN

CHILLICOTHE, May 18—Services for Chillicothe's first woman physician, Dr. Gertrude Jones Cusaden, were conducted Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at the Concord Methodist Church. Dr. Cusaden died Thursday at the home of her nephew, Arthur F. Jones, Liberty Township. She was ninety years old. After graduating from Ohio Wesleyan and later from Ann Arbor Medical College, she began practice in Chillicothe in 1874 when she was 25 years old. She is survived by three sons, a foster daughter, a brother, and two sisters.

forces. It is imperative that the sums for critical items be provided. It is a matter of serious concern to realize that even after the money becomes available, it will still take from one to two years to obtain delivery . . .

Gen. Marshall, disclosing that the army could only put 75,000 men in the field today: "Some equipment is still lacking, but in general, I will say that in a state of fair efficiency, with many of the most modern weapons, with modernized field artillery, we could put in the field at the present time, as a mobile force, about 75,000 men of the regular establishment."

Many Factors Lacking Gen. Marshall, on how such a force would be equipped: "It would have Garand rifles. It would lack almost entirely the 37 millimeter anti-aircraft guns. It would have a fair complement of 37 millimeter anti-tank guns. It would have at the moment a little less than half of the modernized 75 millimeter guns. It would be lacking modern 155 millimeter guns and some corps troops. It would be lacking in some essential engineers and communications units. Other than that it would be all right."

Gen. Arnold, on the need for modernization of the army air force: "When we saw the results accomplished abroad, it became apparent to us that we were on the wrong track; that we should get something besides volume of fire. We had to get fire power, which meant an increase in the size of the caliber of the weapons that we used. We feel now that we have to jump to the 50-caliber and maybe the 20-millimeter gun, on all our pursuit airplanes so that when we get a hit, it means something more than just a hole through an airplane. That is what we are endeavoring to do."

Gen. Arnold, on the army's twin-engine B-18 bombers: "... if you take the B-18 today and send it out against modern equipment it would be suicide. So, we have to supersede those B-18 as combat planes with more modern bombers. However we will use the B-18's for training purposes."

Gen. Arnold, asked whether the army has any ultra-modern armored planes with self-sealing tanks and cannon-ammunition: "none. We are just right now going into it."

Gen. Arnold, asked how many of the army's present fleet of 2,700 planes could be modernized: "offhand I should say a half dozen."

Aircraft Guns Short

Gen. Marshall, asked whether the U. S. has enough anti-aircraft guns in view of the fact that the British employ 1,000 to defend Scapa Flow alone: "We have 440 now on hand and under order for our mobile regiments. If we get the gun now in this bill (36) we will have a remaining shortage of 21 for the mobile regiments of the continental United States. Once we have caught up on other deficiencies we should procure more for local security."

Gen. Marshall, explaining that if the army's plans were followed the "remaining shortage of 21" anti-aircraft guns would be on hand by July, 1942, then added: "all of which is an indication of the long and maybe tragic delay involved in securing such material after appropriations have actually been made."

Gen. Marshall, on condition of National Guard units: "at the be-

On Sunday evening, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will go on the air with a message for the listening public. America's first solo trans-Atlantic flier, surveyed German and Russian air strength shortly before the European war set in and warned of their superior strength.

As immediate evidence that he, too, was dropping political considerations, President Roosevelt said his projected cross-country swing next month probably would go by the board. The President had planned this trip originally to compete with the Republican national convention which meets in Philadelphia on June 24.

Separation Considered Bricker and Schorr discussed a proposal to separate the national and state ballots in the November election, but were represented as reaching no definite conclusions.

The immediate advantage of such move to the Republican party would be avoidance of a situation as confronted it in the Roosevelt landslide four years ago when straight-ticket voting cost the Republicans many state and county offices.

On the other hand, if there should be a Republican landslide in November separation of the ballots would have netted the party no gain and might even prove costly.

Burton and Bricker, in their first post-primary conference, also touched upon the Cleveland relief situation which the mayor said still presents a serious problem, with 60,000 persons receiving aid.

Next week State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood is to go to Cleveland to examine the relief situation. If the supreme court upholds the right to issue $2,200,000 in delinquent tax bonds, the revenue thus derived will take care of any emergency, Burton said, but it will not carry Cleveland through the calendar year.

The mayor was to confer with the governor again next week, after which Bricker will meet with other Republican state candidates nominated last Tuesday to discuss preliminary campaign plans. State Chairman Schorr did not attend the first conference, nor was he represented.

MAYOR CADY APPOINTS TRUSTEES TO OPERATE CIRCLEVILLE PLAYGROUND

SIX MEN NAMED AFTER COUNCIL ACCEPTS LAND

Committee Continues Work Of Solicitation For Needed Money

Circleville's playground program took another forward step Saturday when Mayor W. B. Cady announced appointment of a park board of trustees under whose supervision the 13-acre playground will be conducted.

The mayor's trustees include Frank A. Lynch, who could well be called the "father of the city playground" because of his activity in promoting the undertaking; Dan McClain, T. O. Gilliland, Harry L. Bartholomew, Earl A. Smith and Dwight Steele. An organization meeting of the board will be conducted in the near future.

Circleville council at its meeting Wednesday evening accepted the playground property in the city's name, a resolution drawn to that effect being voted.

Although the land has been purchased from the Voll heirs, solicitation for funds which will be used to properly equip the park is continuing with solicitors urging that persons interested in the playground cooperate by making contributions no matter how large or how small.

It is hoped to have the playground, which is north of Hargus Creek and west of Court Street in condition for organized play during the summer. Circleville at present is without a playground.

KIWANIS TO ATTEND MEETING IN NEWARK

Kiwanis Club members will travel to Newark Monday evening to join in a district meeting which will be addressed by President Howard L. Bevis of Ohio State University.

Mainly About People

ONE MINUTE PULPIT
Lead me, O Lord, in thy righteousness because of mine enemies; make thy way straight before my face.—Psalms 5:8.

Judge Carl V. Weyandt, chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court, will be the commencement speaker at Mount Sterling graduation exercises next Thursday. There are 30 in the graduating class.

The New Holland High School junior and senior banquet was conducted Friday evening at the Town House in Chillicothe. Covers were placed for 41 with Joe Asher acting as master of ceremonies.

Ross O. Wagstaff, widely known Hocking County engineer, died Friday in University Hospital, Columbus, after an operation.

A committee of Howard Hall post, American Legion, is busy making plans for the annual Memorial Day exercises scheduled to be May 30.

Fairfield County's Democratic primary brought one of the closest races in recent years when Dudley Crider defeated Ed Moore by 16 votes for the sheriff's nomination. Both men are deputies under Sheriff William Belhorn who did not run for reelection.

Dr. E. M. Dietrich, State Director of Education, will address the graduates at the commencement exercises of Jackson Township School Monday, May 20, at 8:15 p. m. in the school auditorium.

Mrs. Ellen Danis, 121 West Ohio Street, was admitted Saturday for medical treatment at Berger Hospital.

DIVISION OF AID HEARS REPORTS AND DISCUSSION

Dr. J. A. Calhoun of the State Bureau of Juvenile Delinquents, Columbus, discussed problems of juvenile delinquency before six members of the Board of Public Assistance at a meeting Friday in the jury room of the court house.

Dr. Calhoun pointed out that the state bureau, established in 1914, averages about 80 boys' cases and 50 girls' cases in a two month period. He said that the aim of the department was to study and, if possible, solve the problems causing delinquency.

Mrs. Clark Will, president of the board, was in charge of the meeting. Miss Virginia Smith, investigator for the board, reported 150 cases of aid to dependent children. The money for the department for May amounted $1,492, the average grant per family being $25.72, and the average grant for each child, $9.95. Two applications were received and one grant terminated. Forty cases were cared for in the aid to the blind, with $640.66 available for the month, the average grant being $16.01. One grant was reported terminated, one allowed and three applications received.

It was announced at the meeting that the department of public assistance of Champaign County has planned the fourth of a series of luncheon meetings for boards, supervisors, commissioners and judges for May 24 at the Y. M. C. A. in Columbus. Warden Henderson of the Ohio Penitentiary, and Charles L. Sherwood, state director of public welfare, will be the speakers.

BUDAPEST FEARS PRESSURE FROM AXIS PARTNERS

BUDAPEST, May 18—Yugoslavia rushed huge new military forces to her Italian and German frontiers today while a new wave of fear gripped the country, according to dispatches from Belgrade.

All military aircraft were removed from these frontiers to a secret destination deep in Yugoslavia, it was reported, presumably to guard against "blitzkrieg" bombing tactics.

Belgrade was in a highly alarmed state and feared extension of the war to the Balkans was near. This fear was based on renewed Italian and German press campaigns against Yugoslavia, the reports said.

Politiki, Belgrade newspaper, expressed the hope that conversations today in Rome between Italian Foreign Minister Count Ciano and the Soviet Ambassador to Italy B. E. Stein might result in saving Yugoslavia's neutrality.

Dr. Budapest, Hungarian political circles consider that Hungarian-Yugoslavian friendship remains unchanged.

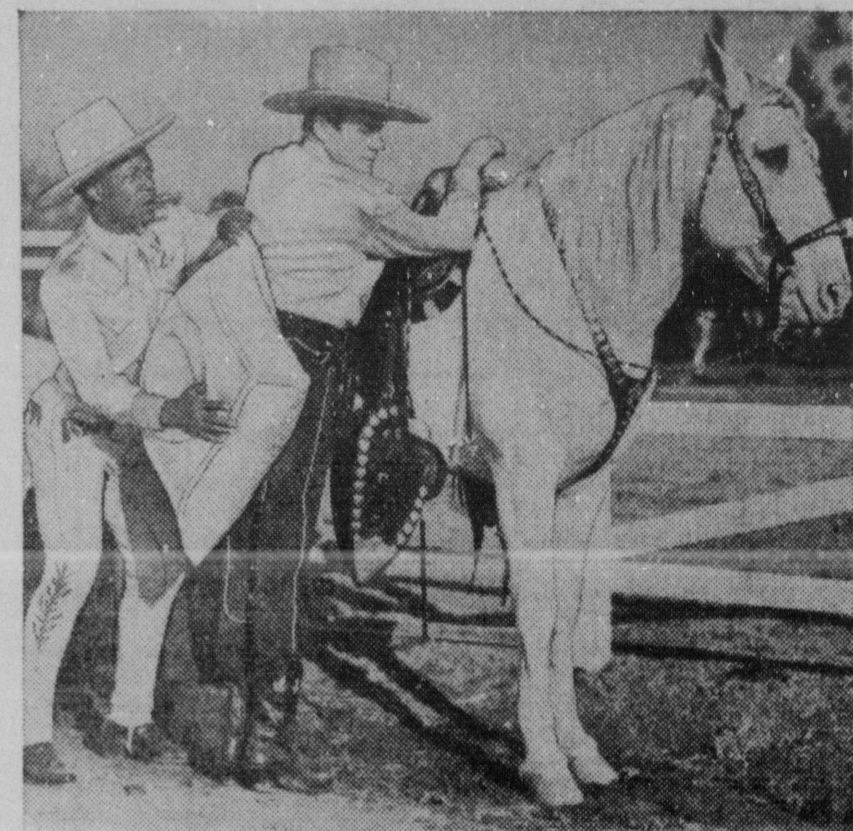

Theatres Present Varied Program Of Interest

BING Crosby, Gloria Jean and El Brendel are shown in one of the scenes of "If I Had My Way," the show that opens at the Grand Theatre Sunday.

EDWARD Arnold and Robert Montgomery star in "The Earl of Chicago," opening Sunday at the Circle Theatre to run through Tuesday.

"BUCK Benny Rides Again," which starts Sunday at the Cliftona Theatre, is fun from start to finish. The cast, which features Jack Benny and Ellen Drew, also includes Andy Devine, Phil Harris, Dennis Day, Rochester and Carmichael, the polar bear.

ADOLF MAY TRY TO FORCE ARMY UNIT INTO PARIS

militarily at the present is not promising. With military information issued by the German high command cautiously withholding details of specific developments until they are 24 hours old, in order to confuse enemy listeners, there is ground to assume that the debacle in France and Belgium is continuing without a setback to the Nazis.

The Germans are within long-range firing of Paris. Although not officially stated, it is the private opinion of informed Berlin circles that actually the German advance is in the region of Rheims and St. Quentin.

In some responsible German minds in Berlin, meanwhile, there is the speculative thought whether Hitler, after beating the bulk of the French army and when German troops stand in the ports of the English channel, might not give England a 24-hour ultimatum to capitulate unconditionally or go down under a grand-scale attack by air, land and sea.

Peace Offer To France
(EDITOR'S NOTE: Certain diplomatic quarters in London predicted a somewhat similar possibility—that in the event of German success on a thrust to Paris Hitler will call a halt to fighting on the Western Front, offer peace terms to France and concentrate German might against Britain. The London censor permitted dispatches of this nature to be transmitted to New York, along with authoritative French statements that France would accept no such peace terms but would fight alongside of Britain "to the end.")

MRS. LEWIS STOLTZ, 93, DIES IN ASHVILLE HOME

Mrs. Priscilla Marguerite Stoltz, 93, died Saturday at 7 a. m. at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. L. Spindler in Ashville. Mrs. Stoltz, a native of Perry County, born August 11, 1846, was the youngest of 11 children and the last of her family.

Her husband, Lewis Stoltz, has been dead many years. Other survivors besides Mrs. Spindler are a son, J. P. Stoltz of Ashville and two other daughters, Mrs. Frank VanSickle of Somerset and Mrs. A. E. Davis of Columbus.

The funeral will be Monday at 2:30 p. m. at the Spindler home with burial in Reber Hill Cemetery by E. F. Schlegel, Ashville.

UNIT HELD SATURDAY FOR WOMAN PHYSICIAN

CHILLICOTHE, May 18—Services for Chillicothe's first woman physician, Dr. Gertrude Jones Cuscaden, were conducted Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at the Concord Methodist Church. Dr. Cuscaden died Thursday at the home of her nephew, Arthur F. Jones, Liberty Township. She was ninety years old. After graduating from Ohio Wesleyan and later from Ann Arbor Medical College, she began practice in Chillicothe in 1874 when she was 25 years old. She is survived by three sons, a foster daughter, a brother, and two sisters.

forces. It is imperative that the sums for critical items be provided. It is a matter of serious concern to realize that even after the money becomes available, it will still take from one to two years to obtain delivery.

Gen. Marshall, disclosing that the army could only put 75,000 men in the field today: "Some equipment is still lacking, but in general, I will say that in a state of fair efficiency, with many of the most modern weapons, with modernized field artillery, we could put in the field at the present time, as a mobile force, about 75,000 men of the regular establishment."

Many Factors Lacking
Gen. Marshall, on how such a force would be equipped: "It would have Garand rifles. It would lack almost entirely the 37 millimeter anti-aircraft guns. It would have a fair complement of 37 millimeter anti-tank guns. It would have at the moment a little less than half of the modernized 75 millimeter guns. It would be lacking modern 155 millimeter guns and some corps troops. It would be lacking in some essential engineers and communications units. Other than that it would be all right."

Gen. Arnold, on the need for modernization of the army air force: "When we saw the results accomplished abroad, it became apparent to us that we were on the wrong track; that we should get something besides volume of fire. We had to get fire power, which meant an increase in the size of the caliber of the weapons that we used. We feel now that we have to jump to the 50-caliber and maybe the 20-millimeter gun, on all our pursuit airplanes so that when we get a hit, it means something more than just a hole through an airplane. That is what we are endeavoring to do."

Gen. Arnold, on the army's two-engine B-18 bombers: "... if you take the B-18 today and send it out against modern equipment it would be suicide. So, we have to supersede those B-18s as combat planes with more modern bombers. However we will use the B-18s for training purposes."

Gen. Arnold, asked whether the army has any ultra-modern armored planes with self-sealing tanks and cannon-armament: "none. We are just right now going into it."

Gen. Arnold, asked how many of the army's present fleet of 2,700 planes could be modernized: "I should say a half dozen."

Aircraft Guns Short
Gen. Marshall, asked whether the U. S. has enough anti-aircraft guns in view of the fact that the British employ 1,000 to defend Scapa Flow alone: "We have 440 now on hand and under order for our mobile regiments. If we get the gun now in this bill (36) we will have a remaining shortage of 21 for the mobile regiments of the continental United States. Once we have caught up on other deficiencies we should procure more for local security."

Gen. Marshall, explaining that if the army's plans were followed the "remaining shortage of 21" anti-aircraft guns would be on hand by July, 1942, then added: "all of which is an indication of the long and maybe tragic delay involved in securing such material after appropriations have actually been made."

Gen. Marshall, on condition of National Guard units: "at the beginning of the fiscal year, 1941, the guard will have on hand or on order less than 14,000 motor vehicles out of a normal peace time requirement of 44,000 vehicles. National Guard divisions now are tied to the ground—immobile. They cannot take the field as such, yet they are a part of the initial protective force which must be able to move in an emergency."

Gen. Marshall, disclosing a shortage of 85,000 uniforms for the National Guard at full strength: "we would not have on hand the cloth to commence the manufacture of uniforms for four or five months ... some might say they could wear overalls ... well, there would be an unfortunate reaction if we should have to leave our men in that ignominious plight for four or five months."

Col. Rutherford, disclosing that even though the army could put a million men in the field in four months, it would take another year to fully equip them: "today it is estimated that, even with all available measures of preparedness completed, over 15 months would elapse before appropriations could be converted into munitions for even a million-man army. And yet the protective mobilization plan visualizes 1,000,000 men, including present forces, under arms within four months after m-day (mobilization day). In brief, the mobilization of munitions in a major emergency today would lag behind the mobilization of men by about 12 months."

NAZIS CLAIM RETREAT FROM BRUSSELS ROUT

an immediate summons to duty for five military classes. In Bucharest a drastic decree ordered foreigners of certain classifications of foreigners to leave Rumania before May 30 or face internment as "fifth column" suspects.

As far away as Washington, D. C., repercussions of the swift Nazi advances were heard today in an amazing exclusive story by International News Service that President Roosevelt decided on his emergency rearmament program after his military experts had frankly advised that the United States army would be virtually helpless before modern blitzkrieg tactics such as those employed abroad.

Thus a trepidatious Europe today remained tense, worried, fearful, for the outcome of what military men predict will be the greatest battle in the history of the world.

AVIATOR ENDS LIFE

XENIA, May 18—A verdict of suicide was returned today in the asphyxiation death of First Lieut. Paul G. Miller, 34-years-old army pilot stationed at Wright Field, Dayton. Miller's body was found in his gas-filled car, parked in a woods near Xenia, a hose run from the exhaust pipe through the car window. Army officials said he had been "mentally ill."

statement of real import. Pershing lunched with President Roosevelt yesterday. On Sunday evening, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will go on the air with a message for the listening public. America's first solo trans-Atlantic flier, surveyed German and Russian air strength shortly before the European war set in and warned of their superior strength.

As immediate evidence that he, too, was dropping political considerations, President Roosevelt said his projected cross-country swing next month probably would go by the board. The President had planned this trip originally to compete with the Republican national convention which meets in Philadelphia on June 24.

trumental in securing the senatorial nomination for him.

Separation Considered
Bricker and Schorr discussed a proposal to separate the national and state ballots in the November election, but were represented as reaching no definite conclusions.

The immediate advantage of such move to the Republican party would be avoidance of a situation such as confronted it in the Roosevelt landslide four years ago when straight-ticket voting cost the Republicans many state and county offices.

On the other hand, if there should be a Republican landslide in November separation of the ballots would have netted the party no gain and might even prove costly.

Burton and Bricker, in their first post-primary conference, also touched upon the Cleveland relief situation which the mayor said still presents a serious problem, with 60,000 persons receiving aid.

Next week State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood is to go to Cleveland to examine the relief situation. If the supreme court upholds the right to issue $2,200,000 in delinquent tax bonds, the revenue thus derived will take care of any emergency, Burton said, but it will not carry Cleveland through the calendar year.

The mayor was to confer with the governor again next week, after which Bricker will meet with other Republican state candidates nominated last Tuesday to discuss preliminary campaign plans. State Chairman Schorr did not attend the first conference, nor was he represented.

DR. JAMES THOMAS AT DEERCREEK EXERCISES

Dr. James Thomas of the Broad Street Methodist Church, Columbus, was the speaker Friday evening when Deercreek Township High School conducted its commencement program in the school auditorium at Williamsport.

An interesting program of music and orations by the valedictorian and salutatorian, the Misses Helen Louise and Marina June Straley, respectively, highlighted the evening's exercises.

THIS WORK PAYS YOUR COMMUNITY TO BE OBSERVED

Whereas, local public agencies, in co-operation with the Work Projects Administration, provide numerous benefits and advantages to the citizens of this community, and,

Whereas, the citizens of this community are not fully aware of such benefits and advantages thus provided, and,

Whereas, it is the responsibility of public agencies to report their official activities to the citizens of their respective communities, now, Therefore, be it proclaimed that the week of May 20 to May 25, 1940, be utilized by the public to witness, by personal visitation of projects in actual operation in the Professional and Service Division, the nature and extent of these benefits and advantages; and be it further proclaimed that this week of May 20 to May 25 be set aside and designated as "This Work Pays Your Community" Week.

LOCAL CHAPTER TO PLAN DRIVE FOR $2,000 FUND

With the National Red Cross seeking to raise millions for relief in Europe, the Pickaway County Red Cross chapter has been given $2,000 as its quota for the campaign, and heads of the chapter have started to work to raise the money.

Carl C. Leist, chapter chairman, has called a meeting for next Thursday evening in the Relic Room of Memorial Hall at 7:15 o'clock at which time the campaign will be discussed. "This meeting is important," Leist said, "and a good attendance is necessary."

4-H CLUB NEWS

The Washington Wide-a-Wake 4-H Club met at the home of Edward Blum of Circleville Township with 18 members and four visitors present. A baseball team was organized with Paul Brobst as captain and the adviser acting as coach.

The next meeting will be held June 5 at the Washington Township school.
